

'Power Play' Tactics Seen In Romney's Move

LANSING, Mich. (AP)—Michigan Gov. George Romney's sudden availability for a draft for the Republican presidential nomination may be more of a strategic political move than a tactical one.

In announcing to a National Press Club audience Tuesday that he would have a duty to accept a genuine draft, Romney—in the view of some observers—could well have been making a calculated power play.

Recent statements by the governor indicate he wants to play a more important role in national politics.

In an interview with The Associated Press, Romney said: "What happens nationally has an important bearing on what happens to Michigan, and I certainly hope to pursue a course of activities that would permit me to have some influence on what might happen nationally in 1964."

If it had not been a certainty before, Romney assuredly will be placed in nomination on the first ballot at the San Francisco convention next July — probably as Michigan's "favorite-son."

Since he can be expected to draw a number of votes from other state delegations, the governor may find himself playing an important role in deciding who gets the nomination.

He could do this by throwing his support to one candidate or another if a deadlock develops.

Or, if his strength picks up on the second ballot, Romney might go all the way to the nomination as a compromise candidate standing somewhere between New York's Gov. Nelson Rockefeller, and Arizona Sen. Barry Goldwater.

Romney has made no secret that he has reservations about some of Goldwater's views, especially regarding civil rights, right-to-work laws and foreign affairs.

While he doesn't share all of Goldwater's views, Romney doesn't happen to share all of Rockefeller's either.

Texas Returns Favor, Forgives Shooting Attack

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—Henry Brown Jr., 40, believes in returning favors, even when it involves an assault to murder charge.

He told attorneys Tuesday he won't press charges against Myrtle Ross, 44, even though he said she shot him.

The reason: Brown said he shot Myrtle's sister last year. "They forgave me and now I wish to do the same for her family."

Dist. Atty. James Barlow wasn't in an equally forgiving mood. He said he will submit the case to the grand jury.

Romney Running Out On Michigan, Staebler Claims

By The Associated Press
Democrats scoffed, and Republicans cheered, though some in a subdued manner, over Gov. George Romney's willingness to be drafted for the GOP presidential nomination.

The Republican support acknowledged if Romney is drafted he might be lost for another term as governor.

Congressman-at-large Neil Staebler, only Democratic foe so far to be a second term for Romney, accused Romney of "running out at the first sign of trouble."

Staebler, in a statement at Washington, said he referred to problems at home for Romney if the incumbent Republican governor were to run for re-election.

"Things Looking Up"

Romney offered himself to a draft Monday if there is "substantial sentiment" in his favor. He said this would be his duty as a concerned American.

Staebler, who announced his candidacy for the Democratic nomination last Saturday, said Romney has failed in a "key test of leadership" in being unable to put across his fiscal reform program in the legislature.

"I would have expected him to stay and fight for his program," Staebler said. "He is running out at the first sign of trouble."

Sen. Stanley G. Thayer, R-Ann Arbor, Senate majority leader, called the Romney availability "wonderful" and "excellent." He said people had been hoping for this.

Thayer said he would consider running for governor if Romney becomes a presidential candidate.

House Speaker Almon G. Green, R-Kingston, indicated he felt disappointment since, he said, "things are looking up and I would like to see him stick around."

On the other hand, Green said if Romney were on the national ticket this would give Republican state candidates "a great boost—a shot in the arm for the party."

Still Not Candidate

Arthur Elliott, state GOP chairman, said Romney's willingness to accept a draft does not change his basic position—that he officially is still not a candidate for the nomination.

Indonesia Wants Increased Trade With Philippines

MANILA, Philippines (AP)—Indonesian President Sukarno began talks today with Philippine President Diosdado Macapagal on Sukarno's anti-Malay campaign and his hopes for increased trade with the Philippines.

Philippine Foreign Secretary Salvador P. Lopez said the two-hour conference setting the stage for negotiations during Sukarno's five-day visit was conducted in a friendly spirit. Macapagal is expected to urge Sukarno to ease his bitter opposition to the new Malaysian Federation.

John B. Martin said Romney's position "doesn't change the picture much." However, he also said "anybody of the calibre of Gov. Romney would have to respond to a draft if it genuinely occurred."

The chairman of the Michigan Goldwater for President Committee—Creighton D. Holden of St. Clair—said he did not feel that Romney's position was much different from before.

"He said he still is not a candidate and that is good enough for me," Holden said.

Democrats, in addition to Staebler, denounced Romney. Lt. Gov. T. John Lesinski, a potential candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor and often a severe Romney critic, said Romney's action was no surprise to him.

"I've said before that Romney has a burning ambition to be president," Lesinski said. Lesinski added "Romney has no place in state government and he has far less place in national government."

Father Slain; Family Missing

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla. (AP)—The body of a Warren, Mich., man was found riddled with five bullets Tuesday and a search begun for his wife and son, who police believe may have been kidnapped.

Police said Ferrand Joe Smith, 22, was found in an alley near the St. Augustine Beach Hotel, where he and his wife, Patricia, 22, and son, Joe, 3, had been staying.

Smith had been shot with a .38-caliber pistol, officers said. Sheriff L. O. Davis broadcast an alert for officers to watch for a 1950 black Plymouth sedan on the possibility it contained the mother and child and also Storm Helminen, 22, his wife, Christine, 19, of La Mesa, Calif., who were registered with the Smith family Dec. 28 at the hotel.

A hotel employee, Tommy Cox, said Smith and Helminen appeared to be on good terms and worked together as landscape gardeners.

Cox stepped outside the hotel Tuesday morning and saw a pool of blood under a chair. He and a police officer discovered the body in an alley.

Search Continues For Lost Airmen

HONOLULU (AP)—The search for a missing C124 Globemaster and the nine men aboard entered its seventh day today as planes continued to cover selected areas in the mid-Pacific.

Tuesday night, six aircraft resumed the after-dark vigil for lights or radio signals over a wide strip south of the course over which the aircraft should have flown on its journey from Wake Island to Honolulu.

British Defend Their Sale Of Buses To Cuba

LONDON (AP)—The British government says it won't stop the sale of $11.2 million worth of British buses and spare parts to Cuba because they aren't strategic goods.

The Board of Trade, Britain's equivalent of the U.S. Commerce Department, shrugged off U.S. criticism of a deal that will help restore the Castro regime's crippled public transportation system.

"Manufacturers are at liberty to sell as and when they find the opportunity," said a Board of Trade spokesman. "There has never been a boycott on the country by Britain. That is the situation and we don't see any reason to depart from this at present. We have quite an extensive trade with Cuba."

Under a five-year credit arrangement, Leyland Motors Ltd. will sell 400 buses and $1.1 million worth of spare parts to Cuba. The company said it expects an order for 1,050 additional buses.

"You would look damned silly going to war in a bus," said Leyland's managing director, Donald Stokes, today. "Anyway, we haven't any war with Cuba and we buy sugar from them."

Stokes said the company in April will begin shipping about 100 buses a month by East German freighters. He said his company had turned to Communist shipping because of the U.S. blacklist on ships that carry cargo to Cuba.

A spokesman for Leyland indicated the manufacturer would be happy to accept further orders from Havana.

Commenting on the sale at a news conference in Washington, State Department press officer Robert McCloskey said: "It certainly does not help our efforts to isolate the Cuban regime and thereby weaken its economy."

Cuba's bus transportation system has been badly hurt because it can't import spare parts from the United States for its many U.S.-built vehicles. Cuba has been gradually replacing buses with vehicles made in Communist bloc countries.

To enforce its embargo, the United States has banned from its ports foreign ships carrying cargo to Cuba. Under 1962 legislation, the President also is empowered to withhold foreign aid from any nation trading with Cuba.

Boy, 10, Killed By Hole Digger

MONROE (AP)—A 10-year-old boy was killed at nearby Ida Tuesday when he became entangled in a post-hole digging apparatus.

Police said Nicholas J. Skotynsky, of Ida, and his brother, Thomas, 14, were operating a tractor with a post-hole attachment while planting trees. Police said Nicholas was fatally injured when he was caught in the mechanism that powers the digger.

Dog Food Saves 2 Lost In Yukon

WATSON LAKE, Y. T. (AP)—Six pounds of dog food, scrounged from an empty trapper's cabin, helped sustain a Yukon Territory couple through 30 days of hunger, pain and exhaustion while lost in bush country east of Watson Lake.

William Alexander McDiarmid, 43, a trapper, and his wife, Maggie, 25, were reported in good condition Tuesday night after being flown here.

They left their cabin on Larsen Lake Dec. 5 to snowshoe to Smith River, 60 miles away. After a few days of blizzards and deep snow, they were lost.

"By that time my feet were frozen up to the knees," McDiarmid said. "We knew our way back but weren't sure how much further we had to go. My nose kept bleeding; Maggie was fine."

Legislature Launches 1964 Session In Lansing

LANSING (AP)—The Michigan Legislature convenes at noon today to begin a 1964 session overshadowed by activity on the state and national political fronts.

There will be no formal activity before Gov. George Romney delivers his annual state-of-the-state message, with recommendations for legislation, at 11 a.m. Thursday.

Aides to Romney said the message will contain brief references to his proposed 1964-65 budget, including the recommended figure, which is certain to be a record, well above the current $550 million.

The actual budget message, outlining fiscal demands in detail, is slated for delivery on Jan. 28.

New Element Injected

Foremost in the minds of many lawmakers, as the 1964 session begins, will be the question of legislative reapportionment that will change the boundaries of many districts, and cost some their jobs.

Injected into the proceedings as a sudden new element is Romney's declaration in Washington, D.C. Tuesday that he could accept a draft for the Republican nomination for president, if the opportunity arose.

Some early-arriving lawmakers said they couldn't yet assess what impact, if any, Romney's shift in position on the GOP nomination might have on the legislature.

Several said, however, that they felt it assured that Romney would soon announce his intention to seek re-election as governor, in order to remain in the forefront of the political arena.

Battles over funds for mental health and higher education are expected to make headlines during the 1964 session.

Ski Outing Taken

Other prime issues are likely to be a new attempt to pass a state minimum wage law—a near-miss in 1963—and restricting of the new state court of appeals.

The 1964 legislature will commence without change from the party lineup which gives Republicans a 23-11 edge in the Senate and a 58-52 majority in the House.

Harmony Issue No. 1 Problem For Republicans

WASHINGTON (AP)—A prime question faced the Republican high command today as it assembled for strategy sessions looking toward the November elections:

How to pick a presidential nominee without going through so many bitter donnybrooks that the party would be disunited for the November showdown?

This issue was not on the formal agenda of the Republican National Committee as it assembled for four days of talks on how to get out the vote, how to attract financing, how to cut down Democratic margins in big cities such as New York, Chicago, Philadelphia.

Favorite Sons Ready

But the harmony issue was on the mind, for example, of Ray C. Bliss, Ohio Republican chairman and GOP powerhouse. In effect, he posted over his state's May 5 primary a "please keep out" sign addressed to major aspirants for the presidential nomination.

The Ohio plan is this: The delegation will go to the national convention pledged to Gov. James Rhodes as a favorite son. Ohioans are expected to vote for him on the first ballot—where they might jump after that Bliss was not prepared to say.

Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona, Hampshire, remarked that he might find it desirable to enter Ohio's primary. Bliss expressed the hope that Goldwater and all other major candidates would abstain, in the interests of avoiding a "divisive" fight.

A similar plan is under way in Wisconsin. There Rep. John W. Byrnes has agreed to run as a favorite son.

Johnson Sure Bet

The Democratic National Committee, convening here Saturday, has no such worries about slugging matches for the presidential nomination, since

Johnson is tentative, and many legislators expect the session to run considerably longer, despite the concern with political campaigns which will move into full swing in late spring.

Some 61 lawmakers and their wives leave late Thursday for a two-day jaunt to ski areas at Cadillac and Manistee, guests of chambers of commerce.

The governor and House Speaker Allison Green, R-Kingston, are scheduled to address banquets Thursday night at Caberfae Lodge, at Cadillac, and Friday night at the Manistee Armory at Manistee.

The theme for the outing will be development of Michigan's tourist and ski industry, according to the official host, Rep. John Toeppe, R-Cadillac.

President Johnson is considered a sure bet.

The big question, not likely to be publicly decided before the convention, is: Whom will Johnson choose as his running mate?

For this spot, the stock of Sargent Shriver, director of the Peace Corps and brother-in-law of the late President John F. Kennedy is, at the moment, soaring.

An opinion that Johnson will be easier to beat in November than Kennedy would have been voiced Tuesday by Republican Gov. George Romney of Michigan. Preserving his official stance as a non-candidate, Romney informed the National Press Club he was amenable to a draft—as he said any concerned citizen would be duty-bound to be.

Johnson said the budget has been growing at the rate of $5 billion a year, and suggested that had he produced a "normal" budget it would have amounted to $103.8 billion.

He said he whittled down the total by trying to "cut away all fat and waste" and stop needless activities.

He described the defense budget, which is sharing in the cuts, as being in "lean, hard shape, with the fat eliminated."

Endorsing some two dozen proposals in about 2,900 words, the chief executive urged Congress to bring his programs "to a fair and final vote." He called for the strongest civil rights bill in 100 years, enactment of a massive tax cut by Feb. 1, new steps toward disarmament and selective increases in overtime pay rates.

Kennedy Ideas Included

Other Johnson programs—many inherited from Kennedy—included broader minimum wage coverage, hospital insurance for the aged, an end to discriminatory immigration quotas, a bigger housing program, and a determined effort—preferably in cooperation with the Soviet Union—to put a man on the moon by 1970.

Message Calls For Massive Tax Cut Feb. 1

By FRANK CORMIER
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson announced today a surprise budget cut to $97.9 billion, even below the current level. And he told Congress he will slash output of weapon-making uranium by 25 per cent—a move he challenged the Soviets to match.

In an unusually brief yet meaty State of the Union message, prepared for personal delivery at a joint session of Congress, Johnson also declared "unconditional war on poverty in America." He ticked off his specific policy ideas for the first time since he became President seven weeks ago following the assassination of John F. Kennedy.

Slash Is Surprise

Johnson's proposals—many requiring action by Congress—were aimed at problems ranging from the depths of poverty to the height of the moon.

For most taxpayers, the biggest surprise probably lay in the budget disclosures. At $97.9 billion, the first Johnson spending plan would be $500 million smaller than the latest estimate of spending under Kennedy's final, record-setting budget.

Johnson described his budget as "efficient, honest and frugal." And he said it will maintain "the full strength of our defenses" while providing "the most federal support in history for education, for health, for retraining the unemployed, and for helping the economically and physically handicapped."

Johnson called newsmen into the White House rose garden before he went to the Capitol to deliver his nationally televised and broadcast speech and added a few points that were not specified in the message.

For one thing, he estimated that about $1 billion will be set aside for the anti-poverty program. He said $300 million of this will be spent in fiscal 1965 starting next July 1, some additional amounts will be spent from existing programs and $200 million will be requested for use in future years.

The President also disclosed that he met during the morning with Sen. Harry F. Byrd, D-Va., chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, and Rep. Wilbur Mills, D-Ark., chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, to discuss the message.

"Fat" Eliminated

Asked to assess the reaction of economy-minded Byrd to the budget figures, Johnson said Byrd seemed to register "pleased surprise."

Sitting in on the sessions were the ranking Republican members of the two committees, Sen. John J. Williams of Delaware and Rep. John W. Byrnes of Wisconsin.

Johnson said the budget has been growing at the rate of $5 billion a year, and suggested that had he produced a "normal" budget it would have amounted to $103.8 billion.

He said he whittled down the total by trying to "cut away all fat and waste" and stop needless activities.

broad goals cited by the President, who sought to balance conciliation and determination in discussing cold war problems.

"We intend to bury no one—and we do not intend to be buried. We can fight, if we must, as we have fought before—but we pray we will never have to fight again," the President said.

Deficit Reduced

As for specific administration policies, Johnson made these major points in the election year address intended to set the tone for the 1964 congressional session:

—Federal spending in the 1965 fiscal year that begins July 1 is scheduled to total $97.9 billion—comfortably below Johnson's announced target of $100 billion. Forecast revenues of $93 billion indicate a deficit of $4.9 billion, or less than half the fiscal 1964 estimate.

—Production of enriched uranium, used in nuclear weapons and small reactors like those in nuclear submarines, will be slashed 25 per cent by June 30—the first cutback since the first atomic bomb was dropped in 1945. Said Johnson: "We call on our adversaries to do the same." And he justified the decision by declaring: "We must not stockpile arms beyond our needs or seek an excess of military power that could be provocative as well as wasteful."

War On Poverty

"As far as the writ of federal law will run," said the President, "we must abolish not some but all racial discrimination." He emphasized that he wants a civil rights law that will include a ban on discrimination by private businesses serving the general public—the most controversial item in the measure now pending in the House.

"This administration here and now declares unconditional war on poverty in America," Johnson declared. He said he will propose cooperative federal-state-local programs to promote "better schools, better health, better homes, better training and better job opportunities."

—He asked Congress to set up special committees empowered to increase the time-and-a-half overtime pay rate in industries "where consistently excessive use of overtime causes increased unemployment." He did not name any industries or suggest alternative overtime pay scales.

Moon Trip By 1970

—The United States, Johnson announced, will make "new proposals," which he did not specify, at Geneva disarmament talks later this month.

—He is determined to try to put a man on the moon by 1970—"in cooperation with other powers if possible, alone if necessary." This echoed a September proposal by Kennedy for a joint American-Soviet moon program—an idea that got a cool reception in Moscow. Johnson's message, the shortest State of the Union report since 1934, cited these broad goals of national policy: "A nation that is free from want and a world that is free from hate, a world of peace and justice, freedom and abundance, for our time and for all time to come."

Johnson said "our ultimate goal is a world without war." In this connection, he said the United States at Geneva will suggest new steps "toward the control and eventual abolition of arms."

Stockpiling Wasteful

But even in the absence of a disarmament agreement, he said, weapons must not be stockpiled on a wasteful and provocative scale.

"It is in this spirit," he said, "that in this fiscal year we are cutting back our production of enriched uranium by 25 per cent, shutting down four plutonium piles and closing many non-essential military installations. And it is in this spirit that we call on our adversaries to do the same."

Enriched uranium is used in a broad variety of atomic weapons and small, specialized reactors, and in the triggering devices for hydrogen bombs. The plutonium piles are reactors that manufacture plutonium—a fissionable material with much the same uses as enriched uranium.

While Johnson did not say so specifically in his message, he implied that reduced output of uranium and plutonium would lead to reduced production of nuclear weapons.

Johnson's emphasis in the domestic field was on proposals to wage "all-out war on human poverty and unemployment in these United States." Most of the ideas he endorsed were generated during the Kennedy administration.

"Let us carry forward the plans and programs of John Fitzgerald Kennedy—not because of our sorrow or sympathy—but because they are right," Johnson said.

Country Above Party

And he followed up with a passage that took note of the November presidential and congressional elections:

"In his (Kennedy's) memory, I especially ask all members of my own political faith—in this election year—to put country ahead of party, and to debate principles, not personalities."

At least one antiparty proposal—involving overtime pay—bore the Johnson stamp. The President said that while he opposes the idea of a 35-hour week, he is equally opposed to 45- or 50-hour week in those industries which consistently schedule overtime work.

Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz said last week that elimination of overtime would create the equivalent of 919,000 fulltime jobs. The aim of higher overtime pay would be to encourage employers to hire additional workers rather than schedule overtime work.

In the area of economics, Johnson laid greatest stress on the House-passed tax cut bill. Until the measure is enacted, he said, "its investment incentives cannot be deemed certain" and the basic rate for withholding taxes from take-home pay cannot be cut from 15 per cent to 14 per cent. The latter move would increase U.S. wage earners' after-tax income by $200 million a month—an amount that would be immediately available for spending or investment.

Because of these factors, Johnson said, "I urge the Congress to take final action on this bill by the first of February."

The lower tax rates would be retroactive to Jan. 1.

In discussing civil rights, Johnson expressed hope that this year's Congress will be the one "which did more for civil rights than the last hundred sessions combined."

Saying that all Americans "should have equal access to facilities open to the public," should have equal voting rights, equal access to good schools and equal eligibility for federal benefits, Johnson said:

"Today Americans of all races stand side by side in Berlin and Viet Nam. They died side by side in Korea. Surely they can work and eat and travel side by side in America."

The President called, too, for an end to discrimination in immigration. He recommended eliminating the country-of-origin immigration quotas that generally discriminate against those who were born in southern or eastern Europe.

School Aid Omitted

As for the war on poverty, Johnson urged extension of the $1.25 hourly minimum wage to 2 million workers not covered by the program. And he endorsed these additional steps:

Expansion of the area redevelopment program, enactment of youth employment legislation, a broader surplus food stamp plan, a special effort in impoverished sections of the Appalachian region, a domestic Peace Corps, federal school aid, an expanded housing program, a mass transit program and hospital insurance for older citizens.

Johnson did not get into the touchy topic of federal aid to parochial schools. Nor did he mention the comprehensive farm legislation he hopes Congress will pass in 1964.

Steps to control and eventually abolish arms output were among 10 ways in which Johnson said progress toward peace could be achieved in 1964. Some of the others included:

Maintenance of a "margin of military safety and superiority," increased sales, loans or gifts of food to hungry people in all nations; continued efforts to "assure our pre-eminence in the peaceful exploration of outer space;" expansion of world trade; a continued pledge to prevent devaluation of the dollar and a more rigorous administration of foreign aid with larger roles for private investors.

J. G. LaCosse Waives Exam.

Joseph G. LaCosse, 28, of 404 S. 19th St., waived examination and was bound over to Circuit Court, when arraigned before Justice A. J. Mortier Tuesday on a charge of forgery. Bond was set at $1,000, which LaCosse failed to pay and he was lodged in the county jail.

LaCosse, who was being sought since Oct. 4 for passing several forged checks in Escanaba and Gladstone, gave himself up to Chicago Authorities last Sunday. An officer of the sheriff's department and from the Gladstone State Police Post returned LaCosse here Tuesday.

Police said that a Miss Lois Jean Kurth, 19, of Rte. 1, Escanaba, is still being sought in connection with the case. A warrant has been issued for her arrest. According to officers, Miss Kurth was a companion of LaCosse's when he fled the state.

Mongolian Life Changes Greatly, Keeps Nomadism

EDITOR'S NOTE — Mongolia, the giant land which lies between Siberia and China, is seldom visited by American reporters. For one thing, the United States does not recognize Mongolia and visas to enter the country are not easy to obtain. This dispatch is by the AP's chief of bureau in the India-Pakistan area. He went into Mongolia via the Soviet Union.

By HENRY S. BRADSHAW
TSETSERLEG, Mongolia (AP)—Dashdorji lives in a yurt.

In the spring he takes the canvas and then the felt off its wooden frame, dismantles the frame and in about 30 minutes is ready to move his home. He mounts his small, rugged Mongolian horse and drives 130 cows to summer pasture.

There, Dashdorji puts up the circular yurt in about 40 minutes and moves in. When autumn comes, maybe sooner if the pasture is poor, he moves again.

Dashdorji's ancestors have been living this way in Mongolia for centuries. But Dashdorji is no primitive nomad.

He sleeps in a metal-frame bed and listens to a battery-operated radio. His wife has a sewing machine. His 20-year-old son is studying geology in Moscow. Another son, 15, is studying to be an engineer in Ulan Bator, capital of the Mongolian People's Republic.

In four years his daughter now 4, will leave home to attend school at the headquarters of a cooperative of which Dashdorji is a member.

The cooperative is about 25 miles west of Tsetserleg, a provincial capital of about 13,000 persons, and 325 miles west of Ulan Bator.

Dashdorji currently is camping in a mountain-rimmed meadow over a mile high. Ten of the cows are owned by four families, the other 120 by the cooperative—part of the cooperative's 84,000 head of livestock on 1,225 million acres. Dashdorji is paid for tending the cows.

Despite increasing industrialization and agricultural development, Mongolia is still primarily based on livestock economy. Sheep, goats, cows, horses and two-humped camels thrive on sweeping plains and broad valleys that look a lot like Montana.

The government has organized all the rural people of Mongolia's 1.02 million population into about 350 cooperatives and 25 state farms.

In addition to schools, the buildings of Dashdorji's cooperative include a hospital, veterinary station, cinemas and other facilities. This is the permanent core manned by 2,800 persons for the shifting system of pasturing the livestock by the other 2,000 cooperative members.

Goldwater Goes Hand-Shaking

CONCORD, N.H. (AP)—Sen. Barry Goldwater—saying he was encouraged and surprised by his reception in the nation's first primary state—hits the hand-shaking trail across southern New Hampshire today to press his bid for the Republican presidential nomination.

"I'm very, very pleasantly surprised," Goldwater said Tuesday night as he completed the first day of his New Hampshire campaign.

He shook hundreds of hands, signed dozens of autographs—and urged his campaign workers not to let the battle for the nomination produce bitterness that would divide the Republican party next November.

"This is one of the most encouraging turnouts, one of the most encouraging experiences I've ever had," Goldwater told a standing-room-only crowd of campaign workers at the Concord Hotel.

The hotel also houses the headquarters of New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, only other avowed candidate for the GOP nomination.

Cuts In Detroit Spending Coming

DETROIT (AP)—Detroit Mayor Jerome Cavanagh told city departments Tuesday to prepare for possible spending cuts of 6 to 10 per cent next fiscal year to make up an estimated $8.93 million shortage in shortage in revenue.

About $2.52 million of the $8.93 million is attributed to a loss of about $100 million in the city's tax base in 1964.

Cavanagh told department heads to prepare proposals by Jan. 17 on how to cut spending. Meanwhile, he said, vacancies will not be filled "unless the failure to fill them will create an emergency situation."

Dimes Drive Talent Sought

The March of Dimes Telethon to be held Jan. 18-19 is looking for talent and persons wishing to appear on WLUC-TV are asked to mail information to The March of Dimes Telethon, Box 636 Marquette.

Telephones will be manned from 11 p. m. Saturday, Jan. 18, until 5 p. m. Sunday, Jan. 19. The number to call during the telethon will be ST 6-1616.

In 1962 Delta County pledged $1,480 and in 1963 $2,100 said Myron T. Austad, Delta County chairman, National Foundation. He said the hope is to exceed the $3,000 figure this year.

$40,000 Spent On Forest Work

Another Accelerated Public Works Program has ended on the Rapid River District of the Hiawatha National Forest and District Ranger R. C. Chase reports that from August through December approximately $40,000 was spent.

A large share of the money went to pay 20 Delta County men employed in the program.

Accomplishments included: construction of a 21 unit campground at Pole Creek Lake on Delta County Highway 440, and construction of the Haymeadow Falls forest trail, including a foot bridge.

Work was completed on the red pine and the white spruce seed production areas. These are areas where existing forest trees are set aside for the production of high quality tree seed. This seed will in turn supply seedlings for planting in Delta, Alger and Schoolcraft counties for the next 20 years. Work was also completed in preparing a seed orchard for spring planting. This is an area where seedlings will be planted to provide future seed of superior quality. This fall 185,000 red pine seedlings were planted on the Rapid River District.

Miscellaneous accomplishments included: brush burning and cleanup along 9.5 miles of accessways and county highways, a 30 acre burn on the Stonington Peninsula, and improvements at the Ranger Station.

FALSE TEETH That Loosen Need Not Embarrass

Many wearers of false teeth have suffered real embarrassment because their plate dropped, slipped or wobbled at just the wrong time. Do not live in fear of this happening to you. Just sprinkle a little FASTEETH, the alkaline (non-acid) powder, on your plates. Hold false teeth more firmly, so they feel more comfortable. Does not sour. Checks "plate odor breath". Get FASTEETH at drug counters everywhere.

Region's Power System Growing

The Upper Peninsula Power Co. system continues to expand, generating capacity is increasing, and the future holds the promise of nuclear power for the Northern Michigan region, the Escanaba Rotary Club was told at its meeting Tuesday noon.

Wilbur F. Montgomery, manager of the power generating station at Escanaba, said the high cost of transporting coal to the north country dictated the need for nuclear power development. Montgomery formerly was manager of the Gladstone municipal power plant and is now president of the Gladstone Rotary Club.

"Coal is our cheapest fuel, but the cost is high to get it up here," said Montgomery. "For example, at Escanaba the cost is $9 a ton at the power plant, while the cost of the coal at the mine is $4.15. This shows why electric power costs less farther south."

Serves Large Area
"It is only a matter of time until nuclear power becomes practical and I would say that within 10 years we'll be thinking of it for us," Montgomery said in reply to a question.

The Escanaba electric generating station is owned by the City of Escanaba and is operated under contract by the U. P. Power Co. It is interconnected with other lines of U. P. Power which now serves a central U. P. region extending from Houghton through Marquette to east of Escanaba.

In the 5½ years since the Escanaba plant was put into operation it has generated a total of 635 million kilowatts, consumed a total of 350,000 tons of coal, and U. P. Power Co. now employs 18 persons here and the annual payroll is $107,000.

Power Use Grows
Consumption of electric power continues to grow in the Escanaba community, Montgomery reported. Five years ago the peak was 7,700 kilowatts; this year it was 10,200 kilowatts. For the U. P. Power Co., system as a whole the peak exceeded 134,000 kilowatt hours in November and higher peaks are expected to be recorded through the holidays and in January.

The future of electric power in heating dwellings appears good. There are a few homes now being heated with electricity and a number of inquiries have been received. Electric heating costs 15 to 20 per cent more than oil, homes so heated need above-average insulation, but advantages include complete control and cleanliness, Montgomery added.

The speaker was introduced by Isadore Stein of the Rotary Club's program committee, and the meeting was conducted by Robert Haack, the club vice president.

Msgr. D'Amour Named Pastor

MARQUETTE — Rt. Rev. Msgr. O'Neil D'Amour has been named pastor of St. Mary's Catholic Church of Norway, by the Most Rev. Thomas L. Noa, Bishop of the Marquette Diocese.

Monsignor D'Amour will go to Norway on completion of duties with the National Catholic Education, Washington, D. C., this spring. He will continue duties as diocesan superintendent of schools, a post he has held for 10 years.

A native of Rapid River, Msgr. D'Amour attended Rapid River and All Saints (Gladstone) schools; St. Norbert High School, West de Pere, Wis.; Nazareth Hall in St. Paul, Minn.; St. Norbert College and the Catholic University of America.

He was ordained in Marquette, Dec. 7, 1943, by Bishop Francis Wagner.

He assisted at St. Joseph of Hancock, St. Anne of Escanaba, and St. Agnes of Iron River before studying at Catholic University. He was chaplain at St. Joseph-Lloyd Hospital in Menominee and St. Francis in Escanaba, administrator of Epiphany Parish in Menominee (1950-51) and pastor of St. Anthony's in Wells, from 1954 until going to Washington.

He was invested as a domestic prelate in 1961.

The Rev. Fr. Sebastian Maier, pastor of St. Mary's for many years, died recently.

More Jobs Lost At South Bend

MISHAWAKA, Ind. (AP) — Two twin cities of South Bend Mishawaka suffered their second severe economic blow within a month Tuesday when the Navy terminated development work at the Mishawaka Division of Bendix Corp. on the Typhon anti-missile missile.

Sens. Birch Bayh Jr. and Vance Hartke and Rep. John Brademas, Indiana Democrats, disclosed the Navy decision and called on Kenneth Belieu, assistant Navy secretary, in an effort to get other production and research work for the Mishawaka plant.

Arthur C. Omberg, Bendix vice president and group executive, said cancellation of the contract will end 400 jobs and $350,000 a month in salaries unless the plant can win new business. It will continue to employ more than 1,200 workers on the Talos missile.

Early last month Studebaker Corp. announced the end of auto production in South Bend, terminating about 6,000 jobs.

Typhon development has cost about $25 million over a period of years and is being terminated as a part of President Johnson's economy drive.

Hart May Revive Mexican Fiesta

HART (AP) — The possibility of reviving the Mexican Fiesta, a popular event here for 13 years before its demise in 1960, comes under Chamber of Commerce discussion tonight.

Sponsors discontinued the fiesta because of inability to find enough help in its staging.

The event was originated by the Hart Rotary Club as a gathering for migrant Spanish-American orchard workers and grew into a large summer attraction.

The past year was one of increased activity for the Yacht Club because of the cooperative participation in the Centennial celebration.

Mrs. Stenlund pointed out that after that date the township records are turned into the county treasurer and all tax bills then must be paid to the county treasurer with a four per cent penalty.

Chamber Urges Inquiry Before Transient Buying

The Escanaba Chamber of Commerce today directed attention of the public to the desirability of consulting with local dealers in similar merchandise before signing contracts for any type of goods or services with transient salesmen.

"Quite frequently the Chamber receives complaints of high pressure sales tactics which have resulted in an individual signing a contract which is beyond his means," said Chamber Manager Walter Lewke. "Legitimate companies and salesmen welcome investigation before the signing of a contract."

"Residents are invited to call the Chamber for information on any transaction about which they are in doubt."

Island Weather Center Planned

The U. S. Lake Survey, with technical assistance provided by the U. S. Weather Bureau, has just completed installation of the first phase of a research station on South Manitou Island in northern Lake Michigan.

The primary purpose of the station is to gather data on lake climate, and a secondary purpose is to record other lake conditions. The information obtained from the instruments on the island will be used to derive effects of lakes or large man-made reservoirs on the regional climate.

Differences in climate over the lakes and over the surrounding land mass have long been known to exist; however, this station will make exact recordings over several years and careful analysis will be made for scientific conclusions, the Lakes Survey district engineer reports.

Recordings and observations will be made of wind speed and direction, precipitation, air temperature, humidity, incoming radiation, outgoing radiation, cloud cover, evaporation, lake level, water temperature, waves, and ice cover. The instruments already installed are housed on the island, but additional equipment will be installed in the lake next spring, some on a platform in shallow water and some, such as wave-recording instruments, in deep water. The station is equipped with its own power plant and has an attendant who will remain on the premises year round. The data will be placed on punched cards or magnetic tape and stored in the Lake Survey's technical library and data center. In the future all data will be made available for use by other organizations.

State Inquires Into New Will

LANSING (AP) — The state has moved to intervene in a probate court contest over two conflicting wills filed for the $4.5 million estate of a Flint woman who died Dec. 13.

Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley said the intervention will be made as the result of an investigation which showed "sufficient questions" about one of the wills, which leaves all but $62,000 to a practical nurse.

The wills are those of Mrs. Pansy Lee Reeder, 78-year-old widow of Dr. Frank E. Reeder, who practiced medicine in the Flint area for 42 years before his death in 1953.

The first will, executed in 1958, named four beneficiaries of a total of $40,000 and awarded the rest of the huge estate to charities and churches.

The second, executed in 1961, listed seven specific heirs and awarded the rest to Mrs. Esther Melin, of Mt. Morris, a practical nurse who cared for Mrs. Reeder during the last three years of her life.

Scranton Offers Record Budget

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — Gov. William Scranton proposed to the 1964 Pennsylvania Legislature today a record annual general fund budget of $1.168 billion, fatter by $59 million but without increased taxes.

"The important thing about this budget 'without-a-tax-increase,'" Scranton told legislators in his budget message on the opening day of their new session, "is that it is no 'stand pat' document. It signals not a fiscal year in which we will merely mark time, but a fiscal year in which we shall continue to build a better Pennsylvania.

To balance the 1964-65 budget, at least on paper, the governor is counting on $18,750,000 in unused appropriations from this and prior fiscal years, a $23.7-million surplus after all deficiencies and lapses are counted, $14.5 million which had been used to wipe out a deficit in the last fiscal year and higher revenues from existing taxes.

Budget experts anticipate that the total state taxes in 1964-65 will be $1,042,325,000 compared with $1,029,810,000 this year.

Cyprus Accepts U. N. Observer

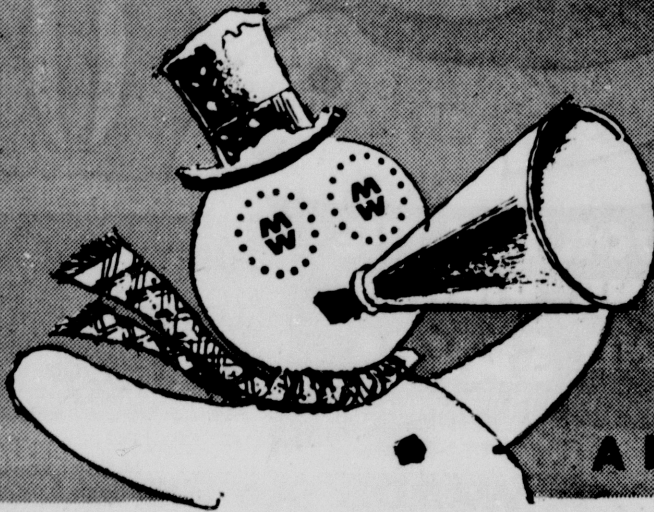

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Cyprus has agreed to a proposal by Britain, Greece and Turkey for a U.N. observer to oversee the 10-day-old truce on the troubled Mediterranean island.

Cypriot Ambassador Zenon Rossides made the announcement after conferring with Secretary-General U Thant Monday. Britain hopes a U.N. presence will enable her to withdraw some of the 2,000 additional troops she rushed to her former colony after fighting broke out between Greek and Turkish Cypriots.

Wood Resource Key To Industry

ANN ARBOR — The wood industries of Michigan — no longer blessed by the irreplaceable virgin pine forests which were depleted at the turn of the century — still employ about 100,000 people in over 2,000 plants to manufacture timber and wood products.

Although more than half of Michigan's land area is commercial forest land, only 16 percent of the area produces trees of the right kind or size for lumber. Much of the industrial effort goes into making veneers, pulp, excelsior, chemicals, furniture, boxes, plywoods and paper.

In the processing of trees into commercial products, about half of the tree is wasted as sawdust, wood chips or short pieces.

University of Michigan authorities point out that wood industries could improve their economic position enormously if ways were found for using presently unprofitable trees or for converting the waste piles into salable items.

One result of research within the U-M Department of Wood Science and Technology is development of wood cutting by the use of high-speed water jets. Waste is reduced materially.

A second major area of research is the development of particle boards which can incorporate bonded wood chips into usable forms and panels, thereby turning waste wood into profitable merchandise. Particle boards, practical now for some indoor uses, have not yet been able to withstand the rigors of outdoor use. Further research at U-M is aimed at producing practical exterior-type particle boards which would stimulate the entire industry, the article points out.

Navy, Air Force Help Women Get Back To Earth

DETROIT (AP) — A woman student pilot, making her first solo flight between two cities, landed safely at Detroit City Airport with the help of the Navy and Air Force and airport controllers and pilots in the Detroit area.

Gwen Kelley, a Saginaw bank clerk on a flight from Lansing to Saginaw, spent a hectic hour in the air Sunday before she was located over Lake St. Clair and was guided to a safe landing by the pilot of a North Central Airlines Convair.

Miss Kelley said everything was going all right until she should have seen the Tri-City Airport near Saginaw. But she couldn't find it.

Her radio calls to the airport were answered, but directions from the ground didn't help because her compass was not correct.

Miss Kelley said she became completely disoriented and then the control tower at Flint tried to help. So did other pilots and controllers at Willow Run and Detroit City Airport.

"There were so many people talking to me I didn't know what to do," she said.

Radar at Selfridge Air Force Base and Willow Run were unable to pin-point the tiny plane because there were so many other aircraft in the area.

The plane was finally located by a direction finding device at Grosse Ile Naval Air Station.

Meanwhile, Capt. Dan Weemes, pilot of the Convair, was preparing to take off from Willow Run on a flight to Cleveland. He heard the radio conversation and received directions from Grosse Ile to locate the plane.

Miss Kelley said the airliner flew near her with its lights on and the pilot told her to follow him to Detroit City Airport. She landed on her second at-

Teacher Tenure

Michigan's teachers have obtained enough signatures on petitions to assure a public referendum vote on teacher tenure in a campaign sponsored by the Michigan Education Association.

The teachers feel very good about this victory. In a profession concerned so much with talk, this is action. They think tenure will benefit them professionally and they think it will be good for the public, too.

The public isn't so sure about it. Actually, we suppose, the public reaction is composed of quite a bit of indifference, of quite a bit of ignorance about what tenure is, of some support for tenure as an aid to the quality of public school teaching, and of opposition to it as unnecessary and threatening to protect poor teachers from ouster.

MEA says that tenure forbids teachers being dismissed, or demoted without proof of reasonable cause. A 1937 Michigan law lets school districts decide whether they want to come under the tenure law or not, but only three of the larger districts have adopted it: Flint, Dearborn and Livonia.

The teachers' push for tenure shows them in a stronger than usual role. This may result in part from competition with the rival AFL-CIO American Federation of Teachers and, whatever the cause, should be welcomed by the public. Any public desire for a humble and docile teaching profession is both unlikely of realization and undesirable. The Uriah Heep type of teacher is passe; they are teaching our young people about a fast-moving and tough modern world and they should have some of its toughness themselves.

And yet the effort of the profession in this direction unquestionably causes some of the public opposition to tenure. More than one Upper Peninsula mother signed a tenure petition presented by a teacher who had one of the mother's children in her class. There was an "or else" implication here, the mothers thought, but their children's educational welfare doesn't rest upon any pollyanna quality in the faculty.

This newspaper is impressed that the teachers, who know most about their problems, deem tenure desirable. Once they pass a probationary period of two to three years they'll have a prospect of life employment.

The plan has impressive advocates and opponents. Governor Romney, State Superintendent of Public Instruction Bartlett, the Democratic State Central Committee, the AFL-CIO and the Michigan Teachers Federation all support it. The Michigan Farm Bureau opposes tenure, saying it'll add to educational costs because bureaucratic administration will call for lots of record keeping to support ouster of incompetent teachers.

This newspaper regards tenure as covering a situation, like fair hiring, that would better be accomplished by the practice of morals, but it would not oppose legislation to accomplish this end because realistically some civic morality can be accomplished only with legislative compulsion.

We are concerned that security can be bad as well as good and that the teacher with tenure will be tempted to think she's got it made after the first two years and can then coast. We're also concerned about the teacher who deteriorates in service, a not uncommon thing in any endeavor. With tenure there might be much less inclination on the part of the school administration to undertake retirement of such a teacher because of the ouster proceedings set up under tenure. (Where it's in effect its rulings don't all go to protect the teacher, by the way.)

Tenure would have a subtle influence upon public schooling, we believe. The teachers say it would be beneficial. It might be. In a world with a phobic yearning for security it can't be expected that our teachers will choose to be exempt.

The greatest protection that the public could have from the poor teacher is an oversupply of teachers, so that they would be competing for school jobs, instead of school administrators competing for them, as at present. Tenure tends to keep this status. Higher pay for teachers to attract more and more able persons into the field is the best key to teacher quality.

Tenure, to protect the public while it is protecting the teacher, should be hitched to a merit system. The good teacher should be paid according to her abilities and safe in her job because she's valuable to the process of public education. Any system which blankets teachers — good, bad, and indifferent — into a common pool in which superior teaching doesn't gain any more recognition than inferior teaching mongrelizes education and should be opposed.

The Doctor Says:

Allergic To Self Possible

By Dr. Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D.

Can you imagine being allergic to all things, yourself? Amazing as it sounds, this is one explanation for the cause of collagen disease.

Actually, this is just a fairly new term for a group of illnesses that have been with us for a long time.

Collagen disease chiefly involves connective tissue, skin, muscle tendons, bones, cartilage and small blood vessels. All of these tissues are rich in collagen, a gelatinous protein.

These diseases include lupus erythematosus, rheumatic fever, periarthritis nodosa, rheumatoid arthritis, erythema nodosum and purpura.

It is now thought that all are caused by a sensitivity against the victim's own cells, the so-called autoimmune reaction. In all of these diseases, there may be prolonged bouts of fever and varying degrees of painful involvement of the joints.

Since the diseases listed make up a formidable array, I am not surprised that some readers are concerned about preventive measures. There is not much that can be done in the way of true prevention because heredity is believed to play a large part in the cause, some other allergic disease.

Often, however, there are periods of remission in which the victim may be free of his disease, sometimes for several years at a time.

Much can be done to bring about such remissions. Rest and salicylates are often all that is needed, but most victims sooner or later require prolonged treatment with ACTH, cortisone or some other corticosteroid. Because of the danger of undesirable side effects from such treatment, close supervision by a physician is essential. This is another example of a group of diseases that cannot be cured, but can be controlled with skillful treatment.

Q—My doctor says I have cutaneous periarthritis nodosa. Will this disease abate after running its course? If so, how long does it take? What is the usual treatment for it?

A—Periarthritis nodosa (also called polyarteritis nodosa) is one of the collagen diseases. It may affect the smaller arteries anywhere in the body.

Symptoms vary widely depending on the part of the body involved. It is more common in men than in women and is often seen in persons who have hives, asthma or other allergic diseases.

BARBS

It's as bad to toot your own horn vocally as it is to constantly toot it in your car.

A Peeping Tom was caught by police in Cleveland, only his name was Harry.

...family man who works late at the office and mislays his house key can usually wait for his teen-age son to get home and let him in.

An Illinois woman knocked her husband's upper plate out when he trumped her ace. A poor lesson in bridge work.

When as in your case, it involves the skin, nodules the size of a pea or smaller may occur singly or in groups. They disappear after a short time, but new ones keep forming. Some victims have no nodules but, instead, a series of red or purple spots which may or may not itch.

The disease may run a course of several months or several years. Treatment is often unsatisfactory. Aside from cortisone or a related drug, there is no known remedy.

Closer Look

Edson In Washington Memory Lane

By BRUCE BLOSSAT

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — President Johnson's close associates say he has no present plans to build a complete White House staff of his own.

What he genuinely wants, they insist, is to produce a lasting blend of his small cluster of staff intimates and the seasoned crew of key "Kennedy holdovers."

Says one Johnson aide: "They've forgotten more about how the White House operates than we'll know for a long time."

The President's chances of forging at least a partial blend, durable enough to carry through most of 1964, seem to be mounting.

A test will not be long in coming. The first possible "shake-out point" for the Kennedy holdovers will develop no later than mid-February. By then the President's budget and his important messages and reports will have been given to Congress, and he will have finished his first round of talks with world leaders.

Less than two weeks ago a top Kennedy assistant, using anonymity, predicted a sizable exodus of the late President's people by midwinter. Some have argued that their "commitment," more to their fallen leader than to Johnson, would then be fulfilled.

That prospect is changing. No more than one or two first-rank men—if even that many—may drop out when the winter crush is over for the President.

Kenneth O'Donnell, though less busy than under Kennedy as appointments secretary, soon will be asked to use his talent for political strategy in Johnson's election campaign. A similar bid will go to Lawrence O'Brien, congressional liaison chief, known for his superb organizing skills.

Already well warped into his orbit are McGeorge Bundy, foreign policy aide; Myer Feldman, expert on legislation; Lee White, civil rights specialist.

"Blending in" the others, however, may depend on Johnson offering them a more promising outlook than some now foresee. The mixture he seeks—of personalities, capacities and loyalties—is hard to come by.

The attraction of politics is strong for both. If they accept, as is thought likely, the only issue will be how and when to detach them from present duties.

It is not yet clear what lure the President might try to dangle before Theodore Sorensen, Kennedy's special counsel and speech writer, who now has competition from Johnson's own circle in this latter job.

Sorensen's abilities are wide-ranging. One Johnson friend is sure the young Nebraskan will decide nothing is as challenging as the White House.

The late President's brother, Attorney General Robert F. Kennedy, while not strictly a White House man, was the single most important presidential adviser.

He will, of course, play no such role hereafter. But his political capabilities and contacts could be immensely useful.

And he himself is said to be determined to see the civil rights fight in Congress through to the end. That could commit him to stay perhaps until mid-July—if not beyond.

What is now pulling at many Kennedy men in the White House is the notion that a fair commitment ought to run at least until Johnson has the opportunity to win election in his own right. This could mean, for some, helping in the campaign; for others, bolstering the President's whole effort right down to Nov. 3.

Even if most of the old crew hangs in there for these and other reasons, they might still cut out in 1965 (assuming Johnson's election). Yet the President's assistants evidently think that, given the 10 months ahead, he can devise more permanent uses for these men he admires—and says convincingly he needs.

Already well warped into his orbit are McGeorge Bundy, foreign policy aide; Myer Feldman, expert on legislation; Lee White, civil rights specialist.

"Blending in" the others, however, may depend on Johnson offering them a more promising outlook than some now foresee. The mixture he seeks—of personalities, capacities and loyalties—is hard to come by.

One of the main items on the agenda of the Delta county board of supervisors at its meeting next week will be discussion of plans for a new court house and ways and means of getting money to pay for same. The present court house is more than fifty years old and is said to be obsolete and overcrowded.

Also up for discussion at the county board meeting will be the proposed leasing of land on the bluff north of Gladstone and Escanaba for use as an airport. The county expects to pay $100 a year for such a lease.

Year Of Intense Physical Strain Faces Johnson

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — For President Johnson 1964, which will be the most intense year of his life, is like being condemned to a gymnasium. It is going to be an endless workout. That seems to be the way he wants it.

Johnson was 46 and President Dwight D. Eisenhower 64 when they had their heart attacks in 1955. It laid them both up for months. Thereafter Eisenhower carefully paced himself through six more years of the presidency.

Johnson did the opposite. Starting the day after he left the hospital, he invited newspaper reporters to his home. He gave the impression of a man raring to go, which is probably the exact impression he wanted to give.

At any rate, he seemed to take his heart attack as an invitation to pitch harder.

After some months of rest that year Johnson returned to his job as Democratic majority leader in the Senate and resumed his hectic pace. Then in 1960, when he had to campaign for the vice presidency, he outdid even his Senate energy.

Johnson, in his almost three years under President John F. Kennedy, continued to spread his physical effort like jam over days and nights as he whipped around making speeches and on foreign trips assigned him by Kennedy.

In all this, since Johnson was a completely secondary figure in the Kennedy administration, he was not under severe tension. Kennedy was the one who had to endure that. He was the one who had to make decisions and do the struggling.

Now Johnson gets the full load of the physical and mental activity which go with the presidency, plus its tensions. In short, 1964 will be the greatest year of strain in his life.

Just the physical part of it is a kind of physical torture: the handshaking, the reception lines, the speechmaking, the banquets, maybe trips abroad, battles with Congress, the need to stay in camera focus.

Bounces In And Out

On top of it all, will come the campaign for election.

In less than two months in office he has put a far heavier physical strain on himself than even the very active Kennedy.

Johnson seems unable to sit quietly and, so far as newsmen are concerned, to stop talking. He bounces in and out, up and down, consults with advisers, holds instant news conferences, meets with his Cabinet, hunts deer, gives personally conducted tours of his Texas ranch, keeps talking, has barbecues, strolls the streets, makes pronouncements, orders people around — he's noted for that — and keeps talking.

There's no reason to think this won't be his routine for the rest of the year. How does all this set with a man who had a truly bad heart attack eight years ago? So far it seems to have worked all right.

Just a month ago one of his doctors, looking back over Johnson's eight years since the attack, says, "He has done beautifully. I don't know of anyone who gets up earlier, goes to bed later, works harder, and gets more done without any trouble than the President. He tolerates stresses that most people can't."

Goldblatt's Quits In Grand Rapids

GRAND RAPIDS (AP)—Goldblatt's, a major suburban department store opened here in 1962, announced to its employees Tuesday that it probably will close the operation in a month. Goldblatt's has headquarters in Chicago.

One spokesman for the store added, however, that the verbal announcement "carried qualifications."

Industry observers took it to mean that Goldblatt's 25-year lease of its 90,000 square feet of operating space in a suburban Wyoming shopping center might be taken over by another department store organization based in Grand Rapids.

Eastern Gets First Board

LANSING (AP)—Gov. George Romney today filled all eight of the seats on the first board of control over Eastern Michigan University.

The appointments include Charles Anspach and J. Don Lawrence, two delegates to the Constitutional Convention which called for structural uniformity in policy-making bodies governing state supported universities.

Anspach, of Mount Pleasant, is president emeritus of Central Michigan University and will serve four years. Lawrence, an Ypsilanti attorney, will serve six years.

The appointments take effect immediately and are subject to Senate confirmation.

The longest appointments on the staggered-term board went to Monroe attorney Edward McCormick and Miss Virginia Allan of Wyandotte, president of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs. Both will serve eight years.

Two-year appointments went to UAW local 849 president, Lawrence Husse of Ypsilanti, a Ford employee, and Dr. Mildred Beatty Smith of Flint, general elementary school consultant.

Ypsilanti dentist, Martin O'Hara, was appointed for six years and O. William Habel of Ann Arbor, manager of General Motors' hydromatic division at Willow Run, for four years.

The appointments are in line with the new state constitution which became effective last Wednesday, and with implementing legislation establishing details of the new boards governing colleges and universities.

Fritz said the NAACP will take the action because "the Republican Party of Utah has not kept its platform promise for a public accommodations bill."

College Finance Hike Held Low

LANSING (AP)—What's the price tag on higher education in Michigan for 1964-65?

This year's price — as settled by the legislature and paid by the taxpayers — is $109.6 million.

For next year, Gov. George Romney's Citizens Committee on Higher Education has recommended $135 million.

The governing bodies of state-supported colleges and universities have recommended $144 million.

Democrats, at a recent State Central Committee meeting, supported the latter figure and expressed concern over the reduction by the governor's committee.

"We note with concern their proposed minimum operating budget of $135 million is $12 million below what the committee itself recognizes as a figure comparable with the efforts of comparable states — states to which we once provided leadership in this field," said Democrats in a statement.

Former Republican Congressman Alvin Bentley of Owosso, who heads the finance subcommittee of the governor's committee, acknowledged the $147 million figure would be necessary to provide per-student support at a rate comparable to eight similar states.

"But the $135 million figure was as reasonable a recommendation as we on the committee could possibly arrive at," said Bentley.

Health Dept. Reports:

314 Abnormal Films In Test

Results of the December follow-up x-ray unit have been completed and reports are now available.

"Anyone who had a large x-ray in December and still has not been notified as to the results can obtain this information either from their family physician or the Delta-Menominee District Health Department," said Dr. Mary Cretens, director.

A tabulation of results from the October and December surveys for Menominee and Delta Counties include:

35 mm x-ray—8,241
Blood tests for diabetes—6,713.

X-rays, large and small in December survey—503.

In the October 1963 survey there were 314 abnormal films, suggestive of the following diseases: tuberculosis 80; cardiac conditions 126; neoplasms 14; miscellaneous conditions such as abnormal ribs, enlarged thyroids, etc., 98.

Abnormal blood sugars were also reported to family physicians for diagnosis upon completion of the screening program.

The next x-ray mobile unit is scheduled for 1965. In the meantime tuberculin skin tests can be obtained at the Health Department upon appointment, said Dr. Cretens.

Urine testing strips furnished by the Michigan Diabetes Association are also distributed by the Health Department. These are not for known diabetics, but are for use in finding new cases.

Gerlach pointed out well sites last weekend for a construction firm which had failed to find water by test drilling around two homes at Benton Harbor.

Then he showed William F. Young three possible well sites on property near Berrien Springs where Young nearly has completed a new home.

Gerlach puts down a stake at the exact spot where the willow branch points down because, he says, it is possible to miss a water vein by two or three feet.

He has another method for finding water and sewer lines. He holds two ordinary coat hangers pointed out straight ahead and they come together when he moves over a water line, Gerlach says.

Kalamazoo Votes On School Levy

KALAMAZOO (AP) — Kalamazoo voters will be asked Feb. 24 to approve an 11-mill school tax to replace a levy of 9 mills which expires at the end of this school year.

The new millage would run three years. It would provide 9.5 mills for operation of school and the public library-museum and 1.5 mills for site purchase, building construction or modernization.

Transportation Held Key For Cheaper Power

A fall conference in Escanaba on Upper Peninsula power costs, probing the possibilities of reducing charges as an inducement to industry to locate in the area, cited the factor of transportation in power costs.

Federal Power Commission Chairman Joseph C. Swidler spoke on this same subject in a recent address to an emergency transportation conference in St. Louis. Some of the best opportunities today for further cost reductions in the energy field, and in the electric power industry in particular, lie in the area of transportation, said Swidler. Transportation now accounts for about a third of the total wholesale cost of power.

Swidler said that with the electric power industry's annual fuel transportation bills running "into many hundreds of millions of dollars," the cost of transportation to a great extent "affects and even controls the prices at which electricity can be sold."

New Coal Moving

He said that while he was not minimizing the opportunity for further improvements in generating station economies, an equal effort is needed for "an across-the-board application of the new techniques to coal transportation movements."

There are numerous research opportunities for reducing transportation costs in which the electric power industry and energy transportation companies could "participate in a partnership that would pay dividends to both industries and the consumers they serve," he declared.

"The electric power industry," Swidler declared, "cannot afford to pay less attention to the opportunities for reduction in transportation costs than to the opportunities for reduction in generating and transmission costs." The opportunities for cost reductions in transportation require a broader approach to cost control in the future, he said.

Swidler pointed out that the energy industry is made up of a host of segments, each of which is making major improvements in its technology to strengthen its competitive position. The encouraging feature, he said, is that the growth of each has not been at the expense of the others. As each does a better job, the overall market for energy increases and "all will grow as they supply their shares of a larger and larger market," he asserted.

Energy Transport

The natural gas industry has a great potential for further economies, he said, pointing out that the opportunities for savings by joint use of larger facilities are yet to be fully explored. He said "the key to the continued penetration of the energy pressure for cost reduction all along the line, he said he believed the fossil-fuel industry and the transportation media which brings these fuels to market, "can reasonably expect the lion's share not only of the present market but of future growth for decades to come." Fossil-fuel generation of electricity "is setting the pace and the near-term future of the nuclear industry depends on how fast it can meet the competition," he declared.

The enormous growth in energy use in recent decades to a large extent is the result of developments in energy transportation, Swidler said. He pointed to fuel pipelines, waterway and highway systems, railroad movements of coal, and extra-high-voltage transmission lines. "No longer are ultimate consumers or energy converters, large or small, dependent upon local water power or fuel deposits or upon any single mode of energy transportation," he declared. "No longer is a mill or factory limited in its size or location by the proximity of a waterfall, coal mine or railroad siding. Instead each form of energy and each mode of transportation is in competition almost everywhere and for almost all their customers."

Forked Stick Finds Water

BENTON HARBOR (AP) — The stick that John Gerlach Jr. carries isn't so big, but people still rely on him for protection.

His stick is a forked willow branch, and he protects homes by finding water supplies for them. When the branch points down, that is where the water is.

Gerlach, 50, of Eau Claire, claims he hasn't failed to find water in 22 years of "water witching," a practice he learned from a brother-in-law, Warren Cook of Benton Harbor.

Last October, Gerlach found water on the Lester Grant farm in time to assure sale of the farm to the St. Joseph school board as a junior high school site. A series of tests had failed to find enough water for school purposes, and the board was looking for another site.

Now he plans to set stakes on several home sites Sunday to show where wells can be drilled.

Ann Landers

No Fairy Tales

Dear Ann Landers: Your answer to the woman whose husband confessed he had wandered from the straight and narrow — only once — made me furious.

"Forgive the big lug," you said. That's some advice from a lady who has millions of readers and is the patron saint of teen-agers.

Isn't there enough adultery going on without Ann Landers giving it her blessings. All the men need is somebody like you on their side.

"Why do they do it?" she said. Your reply, "Pure sex — it has nothing to do with love. Variety." Well, why doesn't the same hold true for females? Why not head your next column "The little woman needs extra martial affairs to combat the boredom of housework."

You let every wife in the country down with your lousy advice. And you gave a big boost to the weaklings and the philanderers. —THOROUGHLY DUSGUSTED

Dear Thoroughly: I write a column for millions of people who live in a real world with real problems. For fairy tales I recommend Mr. Grimm.

To the woman who asked if it is possible for a husband who loves his wife to slip, I replied, "Yes it is." And I'll say it again. My advice to forgive and forget was realistic and it was practical.

I'm for keeping homes and families together. If every husband who slipped once was ordered to move out, there'd be a terrible housing shortage.

Dear Ann Landers: We are a working people of modest means. Our daughter is engaged to marry a young man from a well-known family. Several weeks ago I told the groom's mother she could invite 75 guests to the wedding dinner and we would invite only 30 from our side since their family is larger and they know more people.

Yesterday the boy's mother mailed me her list. I almost fainted when I counted 150 guests. We are going into debt for the wedding and we just can't have a dinner for 225 people.

My husband is so annoyed he said, "Let's buy the kids a ladder and forget about the wedding."

Please, Ann, tell us what to do —DISTRESSED

Dear Distressed: Scratch the banquet plans and make it a reception with a snack table instead of a sit-down dinner. After the honeymoon the groom's mother can have a post-nuptial Lucullan feast and invite 1,000 people if she wishes.

Dear Ann Landers: This is not the usual run-of-the-mill plea from a high school girl who wants to know how to be popular. Believe me, Ann, popularity is the furthest thing from my mind. All I want is an honest to goodness live date before the semester ends.

I'm no beauty but I'm no beast either. My grades are good and I have a pleasant personality. We live in a nice house, my dad is an attorney and we have no nutty relatives locked up in the attic. So why can't I get even one fellow to ask me out?

When the football players need help with Spanish they call on me. When the basketball players need someone to write a book review I get the nod. But dates — nothing. The fellows all tell me I'm a great gal and a good kid. But when it comes to asking me out it's like I never existed. Why? —ZIPHER

Dear Zipher: I may sound like a broken record — but here we go again.

(1) Be friendly, but don't try to be one of the boys. If a fellow wants to be with the boys he'll go where the boys are.

(2) Ask him questions about himself. Listen to his replies and then ask more questions.

(3) Be cheerful and fun to be with. All people enjoy pleasant company, and boys are people.

If you go to work on these three points I guarantee that business will improve.

Ann Landers' frank in informative new book, "Teen-Agers and Sex" ($2.95), is now available at your book store.

Hospitals To Be Automated

By WILLIAM C. HARRISON
AP Science Writer
MELNO PARK, Calif. (AP)—Automation of almost everything except nurses will mark the hospital of the future, says a health economist. And cheerful nurses, relieved of drudgery by electronic slaves, will have more time for patients.
Each patient will have a small but private room. His bed, which may not resemble a bed at all, will supply an individual climate the way an incubator does for a premature baby.
Electronic devices will monitor his condition when needed. The sleeping pill will be replaced by a weak electric current flowing through his head at bedtime.

There'll be spray-on dressings, disposable garments and single-dose packaged medications.
Devices Available
The automated hospital of the future will house almost all patients under a doctor's care, further reducing home visits. The patients may be grouped in the hospital by type of illness rather than degree to receive specialized nursing care.
This broad picture, with variations, is sketched by Dr. Mark S. Blumberg, senior health economist of the Stanford Research Institute. The physician-economist began research into hospital operation about five years ago.
Many of the devices that will automate the hospital and hold down manpower requirements are presently available. Others are on the drawing board.
Already, in postoperative recovery rooms, a monitor can automatically trigger an electric device to stimulate a faltering heart, for example.
"The bed," says Dr. Blumberg, "will be broken down into its functions, and some won't look like a bed at all."

Tent Of Light
Dr. Blumberg envisions the patient's body encased in a box-like tent of light, opaque material. The patient would need no upper sheet and blankets because circulating air would maintain desired temperature and humidity.
Dr. Blumberg says electricity has been used in the United States to induce anesthetic sleep.
"At bedtime the nurse would just place electrodes on the insomniac patient's head, and wham — good night," he explains. A harmless amount of current shorts out the brain's wakefulness control center.
Automating the hospital is expensive. The devices probably will forestall some staff increases, Dr. Blumberg comments, but may fail to cut hospital costs.
"They will result in better quality care," he states.
"I don't think automation will minimize tender loving care at all. But with electronic help the nurse 'will have confidence and be more cheerful."
"And instead of taking temperatures, she will have time to smile and say 'hello.'"

State Board Retains Moss

LANSING (AP)—Members of the State Pharmacy Board have reappointed David Moss as executive secretary of the board.
Moss, a center of controversy during the SuperRx drug licensing case, was named to the board in 1949 by then Gov. G. Mennen Williams and served as a board member until being appointed director in 1961.
Gov. George Romney asked Moss to resign last year because of an alleged conflict of interest in the SuperRx case. One of the proposed SuperRx stores was to be in Ypsilanti, and Moss has an interest in another drug store in the city.
Moss denied Romney's charge and declared he had nothing to do with the board's denial of a license for SuperRx in Battle Creek.
Last month, the State Supreme Court overruled the board ruling and ordered a license for the Battle Creek store.
The issue has not yet been resolved, however, as the state attorney general has asked for a new hearing before the Supreme Court.

Though the Chinese ruled all of Viet Nam for 1,000 years, the Vietnamese retained a remarkable cultural unity and national identity.

Faubus Sights On Sixth Term

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—A few years ago the idea of a third-term governor seemed preposterous in Arkansas, which had a 50-year tradition of "two terms and out."
Now Gov. Orval E. Faubus, a mountaineer whose name once was a symbol of resistance to school desegregation, talks like a man who will seek a sixth term. He says he will announce his plans next month.
Sensing possible public distaste for desegregation, Faubus used National Guard troops to block integration of Central High School in Little Rock in 1957. Arkansas responded by breaking its third-term tradition and gave him 70 per cent of the vote in the 1958 Democratic primary. In Arkansas, the primary usually decides the governor's race.
Now he has held the office nine years and the hard core of his opposition is weary from fruitless battles to oust him in 1960 and 1962. His foes are wondering not so much about whether he will run as where a worthy opponent can be found.

So far only State Rep. Hardy Croxton of Rogers, a proponent of government reform, has demonstrated a desire to oppose Faubus.
But the names of former Gov. Sid McMath and former U.S. Rep. Dale Alford, two of his five opponents in 1962, are mentioned often enough to make Faubus take critical stabs at them.
Faubus has talked, for the first time since 1958, of what he will do if he is re-elected. His main platform, he said, will be a rural road construction program.
His last promise was negative—that he would fight school integration. He kept his word by closing Little Rock schools during the 1958-59 term and by proposing the school closing amendment through the legislature.
Most observers believe voters are sufficiently satisfied to elect him again this year — under a rural road banner or no banner at all.

"The average inactive American man when he reaches age 26 has a middle-age body."

This shocking statement comes from an authority on physical fitness—after studying more than 50,000 individuals. Why this early physical decline? Lack of activity—not enough vigorous daily exercise. Today, our children risk all the hazards of easy living. Right now, in fact, one third of them are unable to pass simple physical achievement tests. That's why it's so important for all youngsters to participate in vigorous exercise for at least 15 minutes during each school day. To learn about a basic fitness program that any school can carry out, send for the free leaflet put out by the President's Council on Physical Fitness, Washington 25, D. C.

Leap Year Has Maids Scheming

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP)—Here it is Leap Year again, and millions of maidens are scheming against the peace of mind of millions of bachelors.

Many will land a man, but a lot of them won't.

What is the difference between those who will succeed and those who will fail?

The difference is between good and bad feminine psychology.

Some girls look at the crop of unmarried males and are dismayed at the start.

"It's hopeless," say these girls. "All the best men are already married."

As a married man myself I can subscribe to the partial accuracy of this observation. But it reflects a defeatist attitude.

Certainly it is true that on the whole married men are most attractive to bachelors. But they weren't born more attractive. They were made more attractive by the civilizing influence of the women they married.

A wise girl realizes that this is the real challenge of matrimony — to take a mediocre, scrubby, forlorn bachelor and build him into the better man only she can help him become.

It is bad psychology for a girl to let a marital prospect suspect that she is looking for a walk to the altar chiefly in order to escape the long daily trek to her job in the office. No man likes to feel that his main function in life is to buy pork chops and pencils for a Lazy Jane.

What are some examples of good feminine psychology?

First of all, don't overdo that "woman mystery" act, girls. Don't be too unapproachable. Let your fellow know pretty quickly that you're fond of him.

Remember that while no man wants to be smothered, they all hanker to be mothered a bit.

As the average employer is too busy to spend his entire day patting an employee on the back, the employee looks forward to getting at home the petting he doesn't get at the office.

He wants from a potential wife the security, encouragement and approval he doesn't receive from his boss on the job.

Bachelors are wild things, and must be tamed with care. The way to win a bachelor is to wine him and dine him and treat him with kindness and give him the feeling that life with you will be better and safer and — above all — more comfortable, than life is without you.

If you do this, he'll eat out of your hand, never miss his lost freedom, let you mold him as you will. Then in some future Leap Year other single girls in his office will look at your husband and say:

"Gee, what chance have I got? All the best men are already married."

Old Fashions
Again In Spring
Style Picture

By JEAN SPRAIN WILSON
NEW YORK (AP)—Old fashions never die. They cropped up again and again at spring style previews here Tuesday. Just how old the fashion was depended on the designers' mood. Most, like Ann Klein of the Junior Sophisticates, still are enchanted with the roaring '20s when saucy hipster waists, flouncy skirts, and shoestring shoulder straps were the rage. Borrowed from the sexy '30s are bias-shaped dresses that reveal every figure fault, as well as plunging necklines, and cascades of feathers and plumes. Jacques Tiffreau winked at this era in designing midnight black dinner gowns modeled for the House of Monte San-Pruzan. Chalk-striped dandy suits date to the Depression days—and bolder versions to the turn of the century. But filmy blouses with lacy bibs are out of great-grandmothers' family album. But designer Vera Maxwell trove home the message that old clothes well-chosen may be worn 10 to 15 years without revealing their age. Sash jackets, coats that ease over hips, classic sheaths with busby jackets, princess dresses, coachman and chesterfield coats—all took to the runways without looking a day older than the current collections. Yet they were costumes garnered from the closets of Miss Maxwell's friends, and still in use, with a little hemming, for those many years.

Soft Is The Spring

By HELEN HENNESSY
Women's Editor

NEW YORK — (NEA)—The current fashion showings in New York prove that girls will be girls, the sportive look notwithstanding. The spring message is the return of the soft look in everything from dresses to coats. Reminiscent of the '30s, that most elegant and feminine fashion era, the shape has been put back into clothes. Even skirts are fuller and have a swing and a flair. The bias cut that molds the figure so beautifully bows in again after a long absence. Ruffles, too, are back in a big way on suits, blouses and even raincoats. Jaunty capes in many styles are waiting to be tossed over separates, sheath dresses or suits. They add a charming, feminine touch to any ensemble. Filmy chiffon, cotton lace, crisp organdy, light, airy wools and soft mohair are some of the fabrics that enhance the total soft look. Pin stripes, bold floral prints, whites, many shades of beige, navy and pastels are on the color scene to add their measure to the soft message of spring '64. And every lass in the fashion picture will look as fresh and lighthearted as spring itself.

Lace and chiffon combine for a romantic look for evening from the Brannell spring collection. There's a controlled fullness in the mauve chiffon skirt. The sleeves of the coffee embroidered lace bodice glitter with crystal.

Chiffon And Gazar Newest
Evening Wear

By MARY CAMPBELL
AP Newsfeatures Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Full-length evening dresses in yards of floating printed chiffon and plain - color, linen - like silk gazar were highlights of Tuesday's shows by Count Sarni and Mollie Parnis of the American Designers Group. Sarni made much use of chiffon in prints that looked like butterfly wings. Bodices and sheath skirts were of printed silk twill with the full chiffon overskirts. One had 75 yards of matching print. Mollie Parnis, who commented on her own show, said she designs to help a woman catch, or keep, a man. Her designs were almost fitted, with seams and darts bringing the fabric in at the waist, and gathers emphasizing the bust.

For evening wear, Miss Parnis favored silk gazar in solid colors, usually white for the bodice, black for the long, slim skirt and a sewn-in belt in a bright accent color. Miss Parnis, also showed suits, most of them three-piece, with matching or contrasting overblouses belted, tied or darted in at the waist. A lengthy but interesting show by Ben Zuckerman emphasized his idea of the spring suit—wool and most often in white, ivory, beige, gray or apricot. Zuckerman's suit jackets reached the skirts two or three inches below the waistline. Shoulders were squared, a few slightly padded, and sleeves were three-quarter or short. More people get more news from newspapers than from all other sources combined.

TWO SURE FAVORITES

By HELEN HENNESSY
Women's Editor

NEW YORK — (NEA)—One of the most intriguing coats seen in the current New York fashion showings was the baby overcoat. This smart little coat stops just below the hipline. Shoulders are generally set in with trim, military effect, and camel twill is the favorite fabric.

Other silhouettes shown were the regimental or reefer-type coat and the fitted princess. Fabrics are flatter in surface than heretofore and take dramatic new directions in Shetlands, coverts and cord weaves. Capes in many varieties are high on the fashion list. There are full-length, swinging capes in checked mohair and solid soft woolsens.

Some collections included both wool and crepe slim dresses, topped with matching capes to give the look of a suit. Other designers tossed matching capes over tweed suits and there were suit jackets with sleeves that gave a cape effect. The saucy swing of a cape is just one more touch of the feminine allure so apparent in all of the collections for the spring of 1964.

The baby overcoat and the cape are big news for spring. From Originala, the baby overcoat costume (left) includes a French grey flannel skirt paired with a camel cavalry twill, single-breasted coat. Coat has four vertical pockets and a cuffed sleeve. Anthony Blotta's two-part costume (right) is of grey imported basket-woven wool. The dress is a slim, sheath with kimono sleeves. Over it a matching cape, back-pleated and lined in orange and white polka dot silk.

Three Escanaba Drug Stores In New Ownership

Three of Escanaba's long-established drug stores have changed hands, with three young men becoming proprietors of businesses where the retiring owners had collectively served the needs of the community for 96 years.

Leslie Grosz is the new owner of the City Drug, purchasing the business from J. D. "Joe" Cota; the West End Drug Store, formerly owned by Leslie W. Olson and then as a partnership with Robert L. Krohmer, is now owned by Krohmer; and Richard Pryal has purchased from Roy Goodman the Goodman Drug Store.

Goodman, who resides on the Ford River Road, has been in the drug business here since 1928 and has been the owner of the store since 1929. His first store was at Ludington and S. 7th St., where the Marrier Music store is now located. After about a dozen years there the Goodman store was moved to its present location at 1018 Ludington.

Plan Vacation

Leslie W. Olson, 1616 S. 16th St., had operated the West End Drug Store since 1953. A native of Escanaba, Olson joined the store in 1936 as a pharmacist, later became a partner of Claude B. Farrell, and then the owner 11 years ago. The West End Drug store was founded by Sourwine & Hartnett 62 years ago. Mr. and Mrs. Olson will continue to make their home in Escanaba. They are leaving Monday for a winter vacation in San Diego, Calif.

The City Drug is an old name among the drug stores of the community. J. D. Cota bought the store from Walter Fax in 1932. The store was first located on S. 10th St. before the turn of the century; then it was moved by the late William Ammerman to the corner now occupied by Home Supply, and later to its present location at 1107 Ludington.

The New Owners

Leslie Grosz, who purchased the City Drug from Cota, received his degree in pharmacy from the University of Michigan in 1955. He came to Escanaba last April and was associated with Cota in the business until the purchase was effected recently.

Mr. and Mrs. Grosz and their two sons, Daryl and David, reside at 1021 Minnesota Ave., Gladstone. Robert L. Krohmer, the new proprietor of the West End Drug Store, was a partner with Leslie Olson for about a year, and had been associated with the store since 1952. He is a native of Kingsford, and received his bachelor of science degree in pharmacy at Ferris in 1950.

Mr. and Mrs. Krohmer and their children reside at 208 S. 4th St. Mrs. Krohmer is the former Juanita Johnson of Iron Mountain.

Richard Pryal, now owner of Goodman Drug Store, was born in Escanaba, the son of the James D. Pryals. He is a graduate of Escanaba High School and received his degree in pharmacy from Ferris in 1958. For two years he was employed as a state drug inspector and then in October last year he became associated with Goodman Drug Store.

Mrs. Pryal is the former Jane DeBacker of Rock. There are two sons, Patrick and Michael, a daughter Mary, and the family resides at 204 N. 14th St.

'Scenic' Designation On Highway 13 Asked

The campaign of H. L. Dunklee, Munising motel operator and tourism promoter, to have beautiful Forest Highway 13 between Nahma Junction and Munising designated on the Michigan Highway Department road map as "Scenic Highway 13" is persisting, but not gaining.

"As the highway is now marked," says Dunklee "it is grossly unfair to the traveling public. All other states that I have traveled where such federal roads exist, are marked 'Scenic Highway So-and-So.' I maintain that Highway 13 should be on the map as Scenic Highway 13 with no mention of 'federal' whatever."

Forest Highway 13 was constructed with funds furnished by the U.S. Forest Service and then turned over to the public highway system. It is part of the county road systems of Delta and Alger.

Campgrounds Omitted

Forest Service spokesmen said that it was not insisting upon a "federal" designation in map identification, but that practically some number would have to be used to make designation meaningful as a guide to the highway. The Forest Service counters difficulty, it suggested, in obtaining designation of forest campgrounds and other recreational facilities on state maps, but is having increasing success with the road maps being supplied to the public by gasoline companies.

John Murray, director of the Motor Services Division of the Michigan Highway Department, explained its position in the situation. "We are past the deadline for any changes in the 1964 highway map," said Murray.

Fatal Stabbing Called Mistake

NEWPORT BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Spanish-born Manola Gallardo, unable to speak English, may have fatally stabbed multimillionaire William A. Bartholomae after mistakenly believing he had barned her sister, Orange County Dist. Atty. Kenneth Williams said.

The district attorney's office dropped murder charges Tuesday against Bartholomae's sister-in-law, Carmen, 25, and booked her sister, Manola, 32, on suspicion of murder.

Bartholomae, 70, a yachtman who made an estimated $11 million in ranching, oil and mining, died Sunday morning in the kitchen of his $500,000 mansion on Newport Bay.

The district attorney said Bartholomae died in a "real, choice battle" in which he was clawed and stabbed to death. Williams said a lie detector test given Mrs. Bartholomae and further police investigation Tuesday led to her release and the arrest of her sister.

The district attorney said investigation gave this picture of the fatal stabbing: Manola had just left the kitchen to take care of her sister's 3-month-old son. On her return, she saw her sister lying on the floor, Bartholomae leaning over her. She either thought Bartholomae had harmed her sister or was about to.

A scuffle ensued. Bartholomae was stabbed. Manola's left hand was nearly severed. The lie detector test confirmed Mrs. Bartholomae's story that she fainted because of abdominal pains while her sister was out of the room, Williams said.

Miss Gallardo waived preliminary hearing and will be arraigned in Orange County Superior Court Jan. 16. Her attorney, Paul Caruso, said she would plead innocent.

ray "but I will take a serious look at the question of designation of a federal forest highway for the 1965 map. Offhand, I think the question may pose more problems than we can handle."

"There are 42 federal forest highway routes in Michigan, involving 606 miles of county roads and 646 miles on state highways. Federal forest highway numbers have never appeared on the highway map and we are advised by the Forest Service that there is no established program for signing federal forest highways."

No Road Signs

"The federal forest highway designation, therefore, involves us in numbering county roads on state maps (and if one county road, why not another?)

and involves us also in designating highways on the map that have no signing on the road."

"To use the descriptive words 'scenic highway' would produce a demand from a great number of counties to have a particular highway to designate whether it was a forest highway or not. In other words, we would be faced with a question of whether we designate some sections of U.S.-31, for example, or U.S. 2 as scenic highways (for the same reasons of tourist appeal that I assume lie behind the suggestion of Mr. Dunklee)."

"In any event we will review the question carefully next summer when the editorial planning of the 1965 map takes place."

U-M Friends To Dine On Monday

Alumni and friends of the University of Michigan are invited to a smorgasbord supper at 6:30 p. m. Monday, Jan. 13 at Marco's. The program will be highlighted by a talk by Robert G. Forman, assistant director of university relations and development and showing of athletic game films by William B. Stegath of the U-M Alumni Association.

President James H. Kent of the Delta County U-M Alumni Club which is sponsoring the dinner meeting said it was hoped that adults would bring student candidates for the University of Michigan with them to the dinner.

Escanaba Mayor Harold Vanlerberghe and Gladstone Mayor Frank Stupak and other civic and educational leaders will attend the supper. A minimum fee has been set to encourage after years with the Bendix Systems Division in Ann Arbor. He heads a U-M division which includes the university's Broadcasting Service, Development Council, Information Services and Publications Office.

Episcopal Bishop To Be Elected For Northern Diocese

IRON MOUNTAIN — Clergymen and laymen of the Northern Michigan Episcopal Diocese are meeting here today to elect a new bishop for the diocese.

Seventeen clergymen and about 50 laymen are attending the convention which opened here at 10 a. m. today at Holy Trinity Episcopal Church.

It is the second time within a month the election has been held. The Rev. Dean Stephenson, Bethlehem, Pa., to whom the post was offered previously, declined.

Dennis Kleikamp, 13-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Kleikamp, Wilson, Rte. 1, died Tuesday at 11 a. m., at St. Francis Hospital where he had been a medical patient five days.

Dennis was born Nov. 20, 1962, in Escanaba. Besides his parents, he is survived by three sisters, Mary, Cynthia and Vivian, two brothers, Anthony and Joseph, and the grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. William Kleikamp Sr., of Wilson and Mr. and Mrs. Eli Gagne of Spalding.

Friends of the family may call at the Boyle Funeral Home in Park River after 3 p. m., today. Services will be held Thursday at 10 a. m., at St. Francis Xavier Church, Spalding with Fr. Walter Franczek offering Mass of the Angels. Burial will be in Spalding Cemetery.

Hospital Load Reopens Rooms

St. Francis Hospital has such a large patient census that it is being forced to reopen the old wing on its first floor, effective next week, says John Haines, associate administrator of the hospital.

The patient count has gone as high as 151 in the hospital this winter, and while the institution has more beds than this "they are in the wrong places," explains Haines. "We have, for instance, 21 beds in the obstetrics section."

Furniture is being arranged to reopen rooms with 16 beds on the first floor to accommodate the hospital's patient load. Three rooms in the wing will not be reopened.

The wing has been closed since last spring when the third floor, which had been modernized, was opened. The hospital has planned to modernize the rooms now being reopened but will not be able to undertake this work until next summer.

Members of the Escanaba High debate team are Charles Bonamer, Fred Gravelle, Charles Londo, Lawrence Blahnik on the negative teams and Marietta Carlson and Rosalie Brault on the affirmative team.

The debate topic for tournaments this year is "Resolved, that the federal government should provide essential medical care for all citizens at public expense."

The final debate tournament in the Upper Peninsula for the season will be held at Northern Michigan University on Saturday, Feb. 22.

Surgeon Found Strangled In Tub

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — A coroner says an autopsy disclosed that San Diego Neurosurgeon Dr. Alec S. Barnum, 40, was strangled before his body was dumped into a bathtub at his home in nearby Point Loma.

A neighbor and a maid discovered his body Tuesday, hands bound behind him and his face submerged in water.

Coroner Robert Creason said the autopsy showed bruises and two broken bones in the neck. The neighbor, Mrs. James Browder, said his $50,000 home had been ransacked.

Crash Kills Two Sturgis Boys, 16

STURGIS (AP) — Two 16-year-old Sturgis boys were killed and a La Grange, Ind., couple injured Tuesday in a two-car crash here.

Sturgis Police Chief James Lanning identified the victims as Thomas Tricker and Thomas Meyers.

He said the injured were Mr. and Mrs. Earl Gerrin. They were taken to Sturgis Memorial Hospital.

Briefly Told

Carl G. Hagman, 516 S. 16th St., has been ticketed by Escanaba police for failing to yield the right of way.

The regular monthly meeting of the Holy Name Booster Club will be held Thursday at 8 p. m., in the Holy Name High School multipurpose room. The business meeting will be followed by volleyball, cards and a social session.

The annual roundtable for the Red Buck Boy Scout District will be held Thursday evening at the Legion Hall in Perkins, with dinner to be served at 6:30. Those who plan to attend are asked to call or write Wallace Porath, Perkins, for reservations.

Escanaba police are investigating the breaking and entering of the Richard Porath TV shop at 318 Stephenson Ave., after Porath reported that a television set and a flashlight are missing. Entry was made through a window in a garage and thence into the TV shop.

Gordon Bean Hurt In Crash

Gordon Bean, 37, of 2100 7th Ave. S., co-partner of Shopper's Town Store in Escanaba suffered multiple fractures of the pelvis and lower back when his vehicle failed to make a curve on M 35 at the three-corner intersection in Perkins at 9:20 a. m. today.

State Police of the Gladstone Post said Bean was headed for Gwinn in a sedan delivery truck and that when he approached the intersection in Perkins, failed to make the curve, struck the rear of a parked pickup truck owned by Tony Lippens of Rock, continued on and knocked down a gas pump in front of Norden's Grocery Store and then struck the store itself.

Officers said the area near Perkins was quite foggy this morning and that Bean apparently didn't realize he was at the curve, causing him to miss it.

The front of Norden's Store was demolished in the crash. Bean was pinned in the vehicle for a short time after the accident. Police said that his truck was extensively damaged in the mishap. Damage to Lippens truck was considerable.

Officers said that they have not been able to talk to Bean as yet and that the case remains open for investigation. He was taken to St. Francis Hospital.

Ailing Nehru Much Improved

BHUBANESWAR, India (AP) — Ailing Prime Minister Nehru was reported feeling better today after a restful night, and an associate said he might be back on the job in another day.

The Indian leader, 74, here for the annual meeting of his ruling Congress party, canceled all engagements Tuesday. Doctors ordered him to bed, saying he was suffering from weakness and high blood pressure.

Doctors summoned from New Delhi advised Nehru to take a complete rest and accept no engagements for two weeks, the first announcement. Later "two weeks" was changed to "for the present."

But Kumarawami Kamaraj, Congress party president, visited Nehru today and reported to the party session that the prime minister was "in excellent health and excellent spirits."

Nehru wanted to attend today's session, Kamaraj said, but the doctors advised "at least one more day's rest."

Since March, 1962, when he suffered a serious illness, Nehru has appeared to age by 10 or 20 years. Although officials insist there is nothing vitally wrong with him, outside medical men have speculated that he suffers from hardening of the arteries, common in men his age. His own doctors have declined to comment.

Chips And Splinters

Before we celebrate "Let's Hate the Editor Week" because he won't put that plug for our gimmick in the paper, let's listen to Jack Sugg of the Cole & Weber advertising agency:

"Everyone in our shop would agree to two things: '1. Newspapers as advertising media lose their effectiveness the day editors back away from the responsibility to guard their columns against junk.'"

"2. Publications that cheapen themselves by the indiscriminate use of handouts are not sound buys for our clients, or anyone else."

Joe Heirman, busy as a bird dog with a hundred development projects, hasn't been by this way lately. We wanted to ask him about how our cows are doing. In 1962 the average production of all cows in Dairy Herd Improvement Association was 11,032 pounds. This was about half again as much as the U. S. average for all cows. Nevertheless, production of DHIA cows has increased nearly as much as the average of all cows in the country.

If you're statistically minded (and you'd better be, chum, to understand today's wiggles) that means that the best cows, which had used up the most of their potential for production, were still gaining nearly as much as the poor cows. This, say dairymen, means that the production per cow in the U. S. may continue to rise rapidly. The lesson: Keep good cows, they earn most.

Atty. Victor Lundgren of Menominee, here for the Delta County Circuit Court term this week, reported (not to the court, Alex) that he saw cross-bills at his feeding station in the weekend. "Can you top that?" he asked Clint Dunathan. "I saw three robins on the Garden Peninsula Sunday," said Clint. Now if this was a poker hand we could name the winner.

Justice Court Posts 'Rights' Outline

By ROSE LACHAPPELLE

If you've occasion to hear someone say, "I wasn't guilty, but I pleaded that way to get it over with," counsel that person to take a look at a traffic court procedure information sheet available at Justice Howard Magoon's.

Put out by the American Bar Assn., in its program to acquaint the public with civil right and due process of law, is a fact sheet.

The information sheet is posted on the south wall of the Justice Court room. Justice Magoon says the sheet performs a valuable public service. It says of rights and procedures in traffic court:

"You have the right to be represented by a lawyer and you may have your case continued to a later date in order to obtain a lawyer. You may also have your case continued to a later date in order to prepare a proper defense. You are not required to employ a lawyer in order to make a defense. You are presumed innocent until proven guilty and the burden of proof is on the prosecution. You may testify in your own defense, or you may refuse to testify

Letters To The Press

CLOVERLAND LODGE

Due to a rather persistent crop of rumors, misconceptions and criticism stemming from the recent closing of Cloverland Lodge, Manistique, it appears necessary to outline some of the facts.

Schoolcraft County did not operate Cloverland Lodge, either through its Board of Supervisors or in any other manner. The building was, and is owned by the county. It has been leased (or rented) to private individuals, over a period of many years, and a so-called convalescent home operated in the premises.

The lease provided that the county would furnish the necessary materials to keep the building in repair, and that the lease would provide the labor costs. This provision did not include or even contemplate any major alteration or rebuilding of the building. No justification for the spending of any considerable public funds to the benefit of an individual appears.

The most persistent rumor of the Board of Supervisors, seems to concern the misconception that certain things necessary to comply with fire marshal requirement, and costing only a few dollars, were not done and therefore the license was denied and the home was closed.

Some of the facts contributing to the closing of Cloverland Lodge follow:

● The State Health Department has the responsibility of safeguarding and protecting all of us, and particularly those who are aged, infirm or ill.

● This is accomplished by setting up certain regulations and requirements.

● A license to operate such a home is issued to those who meet the necessary requirements. Much patience and effort to help is apparent in the Health Department conduct in this instance. Mr. Whitman was allowed to operate Cloverland Lodge for three years under a provisional license.

The purpose of this statement is to attempt to clarify the situation and not to stir up controversy — so suffice it to say that many many violations and sub-standard practices went uncorrected, though brought to the attention of Mr. Whitman several times over. These are a matter of record in the Health Department and may be inspected by any interested person.

No provisional license to operate such an institution as Cloverland Lodge may be issued for more than three years. No transfer of such license may be made.

Therefore, the closing of Cloverland Lodge was brought about by the failure of Mr. Whitman to provide the necessary care and protection for his patients, and not the failure of the Schoolcraft County Board of Supervisors to provide a fire door or other articles.

Schoolcraft County Board of Supervisors, Harold R. Peters, Chairman

THE INTERNAL Revenue Service issued this table for use in preparing federal income tax returns. It may be used as a guide to arrive at the average amount of Michigan state sales tax which may be claimed as a deduction in the absence of definite proof of payment. The law requires taxpayers to substantiate any deduction claimed on their returns and, if requested, they must be prepared to do so. Ordinarily, however, they will not be asked to support the sales tax deduction unless it exceeds the amount shown in the table.

Soviet Missile Shots Sighted

WASHINGTON (AP)—In the news from Washington:

MISSILE DETECTORS: The United States is reported to have supersensitive monitors operating near the Iron Curtain that record the take-offs of Soviet missiles and rockets and can trace changes in Soviet launching sites.

Space Business Daily, a trade publication, said Tuesday that the instruments, part of a project called Headbone, record the movements of all objects, even automobiles at close range.

It added a method has been found for telling which are missiles or spacecraft.

The Defense Department had no comment.

RETURNING RAISES: Irked at receiving only a $100 a year pay increase, some teachers in schools overseas are returning the raise in little installments to Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara.

The protests were revealed Tuesday by E. L. Katzenbach Jr., deputy assistant secretary of defense in charge of education for dependents of U.S. military and civilian personnel stationed abroad.

He said he didn't know how many of the teachers have been returning the money but that it is being sent back to the teachers.

WHEAT SALE: The Commerce Department Tuesday authorized the sale of an additional $42 million worth of wheat to the Soviet Union, and $10.5 million worth to Russian satellite countries.

Licenses have now been issued for export of $167 million in wheat to Russia but only one firm deal has been closed.

Last week, a U.S. grain trader closed a deal with the Soviet Union for sale of $78 million in durum wheat.

OTEPKA: A recently resigned State Department aide has changed his testimony again and has told Senate investigators that tape recordings were made of Otto F. Otepka's telephone conversations.

The aide, Elmer D. Hill, also told the Senate Internal Security subcommittee that his former superior, John F. Reilly, knew of the taping despite Reilly's sworn testimony to the contrary.

This latest episode in the controversy over Otepka's dismissal as a State Department security officer was disclosed Tuesday when the subcommittee made public testimony from a closed session Nov. 18.

SCRAP MISSILE: The Navy has given up on the Typhon anti-aircraft missile which ran into difficulties in the development program.

The Navy said Tuesday it will go ahead instead with an advanced anti-aircraft missile but will make further tests of the Typhon's radar components.

About $230 million had been poured into development of the surface-to-air missile and $58 million more was allocated this year for work on it.

Board Plans Bus Purchase

Members of the Gladstone Board of Education decided to purchase a new 60-passenger schoolbus when they met in regular session at the James T. Jones School on Monday.

The decision followed a discussion by board members on replacement of the present unit which recently broke down.

In other business, the date for the open house at the new addition to the school was postponed until the month of February due to unforeseen delays in construction.

Bills totaling $4,717.20, which were approved by the architect, were presented for payment.

The library report given at Monday's meeting showed a circulation of 2,105 books.

The board also discussed the feasibility of a sex education conference and set Jan. 22 as the date for further study of the matter. The meeting will be held at Eddie Gravelle narrowly missed a perfect bowling game in the Gladstone Independent League recently. Rolling for the Stroh's team, Gravelle ran up nine straight strikes and then left one pin on his first ball in the 10th frame. He picked up the spare and got nine more pins in the 11th for a 278 game in a 622 series.

LeRoy Sover, training the Escanaba boxing team this year for the first time, is working out daily with 10 young prospects at the Club 314 gym. Ishpeming, Escanaba's basketball foe here Friday night, continued its Great Lakes comeback with a 69-46 triumph over Newberry Saturday. The Hematites had knocked off Marquette 60-52 in their last previous start. Ishpeming had lost four of its first six starts this season, including a 72-62 setback to Escanaba on Dec. 6.

Leonard St. Jean, Newberry's contribution to the Northern Michigan University football team, continues to reap post-season grid honors. The 238 pound defensive end, drafted by both Boston of the AFL and Green Bay of the NFL, was named to the first team Little All American by the Williamson National Football Rating System this week. Ralph Abata of Kingsford, a quarterback at Michigan Tech, received honorable mention.

Charlie Polich of Caspian was knocked off his Channel 2 bowling perch last Sunday by Jerry Pasko of Manitowish. Polich bowled games of 205, 216 and 179 for a 600 series while Pasko knocked down 640 on games of 214, 226 and 200.

Appleton Xavier, kingpin of Wisconsin Parochial football teams for the last three years, is no slouch in the basketball department. Last year's state champion Catholic team won its ninth straight this season and 36th in a row by walloping Fond du Lac St. Mary's Springs by a 91-33 margin.

Coach Bill Howe's Rudyard Bulldogs, who made believers of the skeptics by winning the Upper Peninsula Class B cage crown last season, won their fifth straight of the season by trimming Soo Loretto 64-39. Veteran Ron Hintz led the rangy Bulldogs in scoring with 19 points.

Crusaders Suffer Loss At Menominee

MENOMINEE — The Holy Name Crusaders slipped into a deep hole in the first period here Tuesday night and were never able to dig themselves out.

Menominee handed the Crusaders their second setback of the season by a 67-58 margin. Holy Name has registered six victories.

The triumph was Menominee's sixth in eight starts this season.

Coach Harvey Filppula's Maroons couldn't miss in the first quarter, pumping in 10 field goals and two free throws for a 22-12 cushion. They hit on 10 of their 17 shots from the field.

Coach John Butrymowicz's Crusaders began a determined comeback in the second period in which they outscored the Maroons 20-17.

Holy Name zoomed in the third quarter and snatched a

Eskymos Top Gladstone In Great Lakes Clash

GLADSTONE — Escanaba smothered a tremendous Gladstone rally here Tuesday night to beat the Braves 74-59 in Great Lakes Conference action.

The victory was Escanaba's fifth against three setbacks this season while Gladstone suffered its fifth defeat against three triumphs. The Eskymos return to action in a home stand against Ishpeming Friday night.

Coach Harold Johnson's cagers took complete command in the first quarter of the contest, racing to a 14-2 lead as the Braves missed 13 straight field goal attempts. The host cagers were able to connect on only two free throws in the period.

Escanaba ran it to 18-2 before the Braves rallied behind little (5-5) Lynn LaPlant and began to cut their deficit. They trailed 31-19 at the half.

Gladstone made its bid in the third period, whittling Escanaba's lead to four points on two occasions. The loss of Gary Englund on five personal fouls late in the third quarter hurt the Braves in the rebound department. Big Tom Domres also fouled out in the fourth period.

The Eskymos entered the final period with a 46-40 advantage and pulled steadily away down the stretch.

Escanaba had a balanced scoring attack with four players hitting in double digits, led by guard Jerry Hanson with 19 points. The Eskymos clicked on 28 of their 57 shots and added 18 of 32 from the free

Garden Trips Engaine '5'

GARDEN—The Garden Jets shrugged off a fast start by the Escanaba Eagles here Tuesday night and fashioned a 70-58 cage victory.

Engaine, winless this season, took a 13-12 lead at the end of the first quarter and trailed 29-28 at the half.

With Cal Richard setting the pace with a hustling game, the Jets spread their margin to 49-46 at the end of the third frame and then spurted it away with a 21 point run in the fourth. Darrel LaVigne fired in 13 points in a good reserve role for Garden.

Barry Rochefort took individual scoring honors for the Jets with 23 points while Jan Farley and Bob Lauzon also hit in double figures.

Richard Ozanich topped Engaine's scoring with 18 points. Outscored by one field goal, the Jets hit on 18 of 35 free throws for their margin of victory. Engaine converted only four of 14 from the line.

Garden won the jayvee game 49-40.

Tallest Cagers Also Talented; Chiefs Win 10th

By The Associated Press At Oklahoma City University, more than at any other college in the country, everyone looks up to the basketball players.

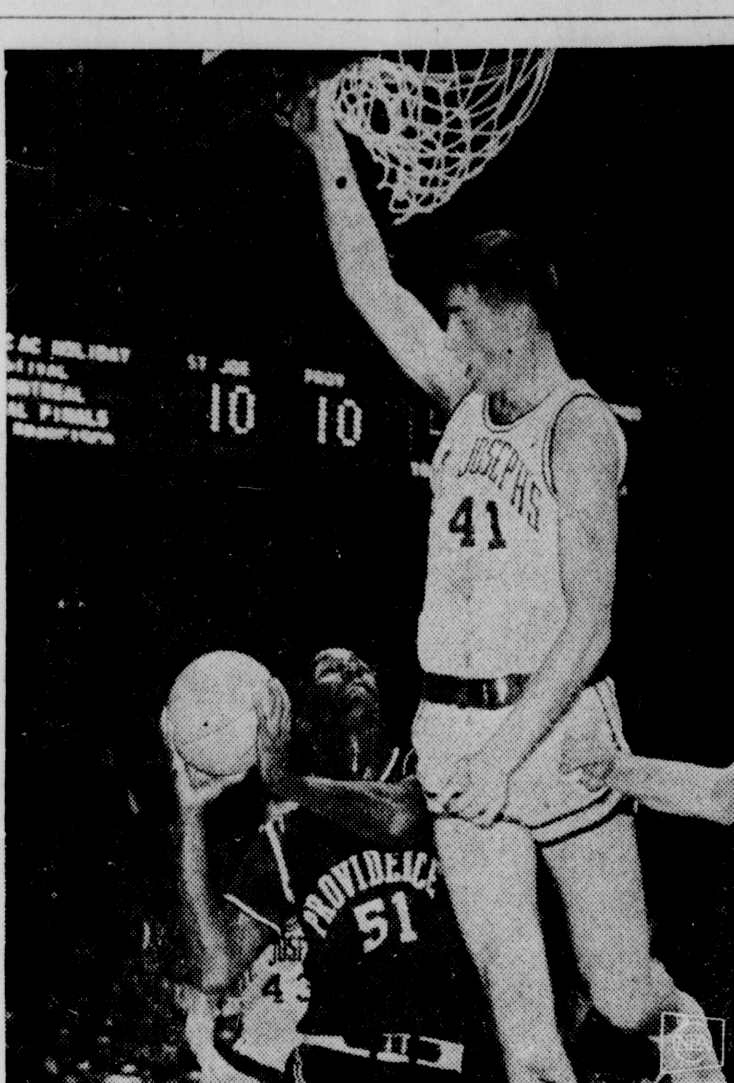

Most of them are as high as an elephant's eye. Kneeling. The Chiefs claim the tallest starting team in the country at an average of 6-foot-7 2-5. The previous record was 6-7 1-5, set by Oklahoma City University last year.

The 6-7 1-5 Chiefs were 19-10 last year. The 6-7 2-5 Chiefs are 10-3 this year, and apparently improving with height.

A leading independent year in and year out, the Chiefs continued their bid for a national ranking Tuesday night by overcoming a 16-point deficit and whipping Loyola of New Orleans 91-86 in overtime behind a tall, talented trio who produced 70 points.

Eddie Jackson, a 7-footer, led the Chiefs with 25 points, 6-2 Jerry Wells contributed 25 and 6-6 Bud Koper added 21, the three turning the tide in overtime after Loyola's Gene Turni sent the game into an extra period with a jump shot in the final minute.

While Oklahoma City was bidding for national honors, fifth-ranked Davidson and ninth-ranked Villanova breezed to easy victories. Undefeated Davidson downed VMI 70-58 for its 11th victory and Villanova won its sixth straight by walloping St. Francis, N.Y., 84-48.

Carney Clobbers Hermansville For Eighth Straight

CARNEY—Coach Bob Kuntze's Carney Wolves cemented their grip on first place in the Big Eight Conference race here Tuesday night by blasting the challenging Hermansville Redskins 91-73.

The triumph was Carney's eighth straight this season and the 16th straight on its home court. The largest crowd of the season saw the Wolves pull to a 21-16 lead in the first quarter and spread it in every period.

Carney hit the bucket at a torrid clip, scoring on 39 of 70 field goal attempts and adding 13 of 18 for a hot free throw shooting exhibition.

Hermansville hit on 28 of 54 shots from the field and 17 of 25 from the line.

Jim Haight, who scored Carney's first eight points in the game, took individual scoring honors for the night with 24. Bob Macco, Cliff Perras, Earl LaCount and Mike Moran also reached double scoring figures. Moran and Rod Erickson turned in outstanding defensive games while Macco and Haight combined to haul down 43 of Carney's 64 rebounds.

The setback was Hermansville's second in a row after five straight opening victories. Sharpshooting Ron Povo, held to a free throw in the first period and a field goal in the second, found the range in the second half and finished with 22 points. He boosted his season total to 187 in seven games.

Hermansville won the jayvee game 70-56.

Celtics Lose Third In Row

By The Associated Press The Boston Celtics couldn't get out of California fast enough Tuesday night after San Francisco handed the National Basketball Association champs a third straight West Coast setback.

The Warriors, who dropped a 111-101 decision to the Celtics Friday night as Bill Russell & Co. opened their four-game California swing, got even with a 92-89 victory that sliced the Eastern Division kingpins' margin over second-place Cincinnati to two games.

Cincinnati whipped Philadelphia 130-110 for its ninth victory in 11 starts and St. Louis beat Baltimore 123-113 in other games.

The Celtics, who dropped back-to-back decisions to Los Angeles over the weekend, couldn't keep up with Wilt Chamberlain Tuesday. Wilt hit for 35 points in the low-scoring battle and out-rebounded Russell 32-28 besides spearheading a tight San Francisco defense.

Nahma Defeats Bronc Quint In Central League

NAHMA — Big Pat Groleau put on a brief display of his scoring ability here Tuesday night as the Nahma Arrows whipped Bark River-Harris 84-47 in Central League action.

The 6 foot 5 inch senior center slammed in 14 points in the first period as Nahma took a 25-15 lead. Groleau then switched to a passing game and added 16 points in the remainder of the contest to finish with 30 for the night. He took only 17 shots in the game and hit on 10 of them.

That boosted his season total to 269 in eight starts for an average of 33.6 per game.

Coach Owen Peterson's Arrows, winning their seventh outing in eight games, shot at a 46 percent clip from the field, hitting 33 of 71 attempts, and added 18 of 35 from the foul line. They made 16 of their free throws in the second half.

Don Johnson followed Groleau with 17 points and Bill Labadie chipped in 12 for Nahma.

Tony Cavadeas played a good game for the Broncos, scoring 12 points and leading his mates in the rebounding department.

After taking their 25-15 lead in the first period, the Arrows spread it to 44-23 at the half and were never threatened.

P-S Tigers Bow To Alpha Quint

ALPHA—Coach Gary Gollakner's Alpha Mastodons ripped the Powers-Spalding Tigers 76-42 in Big Eight Conference action here Tuesday night.

Alpha notched its sixth victory of the season against one defeat while the Tigers were losing their fourth in a row after winning their first five. Alpha's lone setback came at the hands of undefeated Carney.

Alpha pulled to a 12-9 lead in the first period and raced out of reach at halftime, 31-15.

Wing Rookie Gets Shutout

BOSTON (AP)—If little Roger Crozier—who looks more like a high school kid than a major league hockey goalie—has anything to say about it, the Boston Bruins may never score another goal, let alone win a game or make the Stanley Cup playoffs.

Roger The Dodger faced the Bruins for the second time Tuesday night and the 21-year-old Detroit rookie registered his second shutout as the Red Wings zipped to a 5-0 triumph.

It was the only game in the National Hockey League and was a makeup of a game postponed from two nights after the assassination of President Kennedy.

Crozier, who says he weighs 150 pounds, was a nifty, little jumping Jack as Detroit put two more points between itself and the fifth-place New York Rangers. The Wings now lead the Rangers by five points and last-place Boston by 11.

More Honors For Koufax

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York chapter of the Baseball Writers Association has added a pair of awards to Sandy Koufax's mounting collection.

The Los Angeles Dodgers' pitching ace will receive the Sid Mercer Memorial Award, as the 1963 player of the year, and the Babe Ruth Award, as the outstanding 1963 World Series performer, at the chapter's 41st annual dinner, Sunday, Feb. 2.

Eben Fashions Ninth Victory To Retain Lead

EBEN—The Eben Eagles retained their top rung in the Central League basketball ladder here Tuesday night by turning back Perkins 60-46.

Coach Jim DePew's cagers notched their ninth victory of the season against one defeat but had their hands full against a scrappy Yellowjacket quint.

The score was knotted 15-15 at the end of the first frame and Eben spurred for a 31-24 halftime lead as Perkins was never able to wipe out. Eben continued to expand the margin in spite of a skimpy nine point production in the third quarter, lowest for the Eagles this season.

Eben led by 18 late in the third period and DePew began substituting. The Eagles hit on 27 of 70 field goals attempts but added only six of 11 shots from the foul line. The 27 field goals, however, was Eben's second highest output of the season.

Andy Freberg and Keith Altco scored 15 points each and Bill Carlson 13 for the Eagles. Carlson had 13 rebounds and Freberg 12.

Coach Joe Vestich had three players in double figures, led by John Falkies with 16 for individual honors in the game.

Eben won the Jayvee game 50-34.

Owners Against Athletics Shift

KANSAS CITY (AP)—For the next eight days, until owners of American League teams meet in New York, the question of whether Kansas City or Louisville has a baseball team named the Athletics will be subject to conjecture. And words.

Owner Charles O. Finley, who signed a two-year contract Monday to shift the A's franchise to Louisville, says he is confident the owners "will approve my move when they have had an opportunity to analyze the true facts."

"He isn't going to Louisville," Chicago White Sox Owner Arthur Alyn said Tuesday. "Mr. Finley's action is absolutely inexcusable. He has an obligation to Kansas City and I'm going to see that he lives up to it."

It was reported Finley might charge the other owners with restraint of trade if they thwart his move.

Finley called the report "another perfect example of a manufactured lie," and added:

"If the owners veto the move I will face that when it happens. But I am very confident nothing like that will occur."

Kansas City officials, who failed in weeks of negotiations to reach agreement on a Municipal Stadium lease, maintained what Mayor Irl W. Davis called "discreet silence."

Davis and City Manager Carleton Sharpe had requested American League assistance before Finley announced his planned move. They'll attend the league meeting in New York Jan. 16.

Former Manager Claims Dempsey Used 'Cement'

NEW YORK (AP) — Another ghost from the past has risen to haunt Jack Dempsey. Now they are claiming he used loaded gloves in 1919 when he won the world heavyweight boxing title from Jess Willard.

The story is revealed in the memoirs of the late Jack (Doc) Kearns, his manager at the time, as published Wednesday in a copyrighted feature in Sports Illustrated. Dempsey denied it in the same article.

Kearns claimed he used plaster of paris and water in bandaging Dempsey's hands to insure a 10-1 bet of $10,000 that Dempsey would win it in one round. Kearns lost, for due to a comedy of errors Dempsey won in three rounds.

Dempsey's ex-manager said the fighter was "entirely innocent of what happened."

The article quoted Dempsey as commenting, "Ridiculous! I could take an oath. In fact I will. I hope to God I die right now, and my wife and children, too, if there is any truth in what Kearns said."

Dempsey was out of town and couldn't be reached immediately for further comment.

A month ago Benny Marshall of the Birmingham News wrote that Dempsey had been duped before his first fight with Gene Tunney in Philadelphia. At the time, Dempsey said he was not sick the day of the fight but added, "a doctor told me the next day, I'd probably been given a Mickey Finn and I probably was ill for three or four days after that."

In reference to the 1919 bout, Willard, now 82, told Sports Illustrated:

"I'm glad that Kearns finally was man enough to admit it. First time Dempsey hit me, I knew the gloves were loaded. He knocked me down seven times, maybe eight. I don't recall exactly now. But every time he hit me, I could feel another bone or two breaking. I got robbed by the king of the robbers, I guess we could say. That Kearns. As long as I got robbed, I'm glad I got robbed by the best man in the country at stealing. Nobody ever knocked me out. But I was blind. I was dazed from getting clattered by those chunks of cement. My face was all broken and my head was, too."

McCord Gets Knee Surgery

DETROIT (AP) — Darris McCord, Detroit Lion defensive end, was operated on Tuesday for removal of cartilage from his knee.

The Lions said the operation, at the University of Michigan Medical Center at Ann Arbor, was reported successful and McCord will be available for a 10th season in 1964.

McCord, former University of Tennessee star, played the entire 1963 season through troubled off and on by the knee. He joined the Lions in 1955.

Major Football Rules Changes Are Unlikely

NEW YORK (AP)—Although supported by 98 per cent of the coaches, the free substitution rule is unlikely to come back to college football next year.

Most observers attending the National Collegiate Athletic Association meetings here agreed that some changes would be made but that return of the unhampered two-plate system appeared remote.

"I think we will get a rule similar to that in 1962," said Frank Broyles of Arkansas. "It enabled players to go both ways and at the same time it permitted the use of offensive and defensive teams as a unit."

Ivy Williamson, athletic director of the University of Wisconsin and chairman of the rules committee, said his group would listen carefully to proposals of the coaches.

"We will hear from the outgoing president of the Coaches Association, Woody Hayes of Ohio State, as well as the new president, Len Casanova of Oregon," Williamson said.

"We will seek to arrive at the system that is best for all concerned. It is true, however, that the rules committee does not always go along with the sentiment of the coaches."

Meanwhile, two of the nation's leading coaches, Darrell Royal of Texas and Pete Elliott of Illinois, found themselves on opposite sides of the fence on the issue.

"I'm against unlimited substitution," said Royal, who led the Longhorns through an unbeaten season and to the national championship. "I think we coaches are beginning to look foolish changing the rules every year."

Elliott said, "I'll have to go along with the rest of the coaches. I think it would be a better game if we had unlimited substitution."

A poll conducted by the Coaches Association showed 98 per cent in favor of using substitutes without restriction, in the fashion of the pros.

Williamson's group, consisting of coaches and administrators, will meet at Fort Lauderdale, Fla., Jan. 11 to study the football code.

Badman Young Is Suspended

CHICAGO (AP) — Howie Young maintains he is being railroaded.

Young, Chicago Black Hawk defenseman who has earned the title of hockey's bad boy, was suspended indefinitely Tuesday by Clarence Campbell, president of the National Hockey League.

Campbell's action pended an investigation into Young's conduct during a game in Toronto last Saturday.

Stafford Smythe, president of the Toronto Maple Leafs, filed an official protest with the league. Smythe said Young used unbecoming language and spat while serving out a major and minor penalty for holding and elbowing.

Young, a hot-headed 26-year-old who has become legend in the league, was incensed when he learned of the suspension.

"I think it's silly," he said. "What kind of a setup is this when a club executive can go to the head of the league and get you suspended? They're railroaded me."

Young did not deny swearing while in the penalty box. "I was hot at 'em (officials and Leafs). I got a bad call on the ice."

Tommy Ivan, general manager of the Black Hawks, said he was surprised that Young had been suspended indefinitely. "I cannot make any comment," said Ivan. "I was on the other side of the ice and I don't know what went on in the penalty box."
